Arts Affair Relocating From Marina Bay To Downtown QArts Gallery

140 Entries On Display Aug. 6 - Sept. 4

After 25 years at Marina Bay in Quincy, the annual Arts Affair is officially adopted by the Quincy Art Association and will be held at the association's QArts Gallery located in Quincy Square.

The announcement was made in a press release from the Quincy Arts Gallery.

With an updated logo and tagline, the Arts Affair in the Square will be presented as an exhibition instead of its traditional one weekend venue.

Amid the changes, what remains intact is the mission to promote camaraderie among artists and to provide a venue where the public can get to know the work of talented artists, sculptors, and photographers who live and work on the South Shore and Boston communities.

One hundred forty entries will be displayed in six categories: oil & acrylic, watercolor, drawing and pastel, mixed media, sculpture, and photography. All work on exhibit is original and available for purchase.

Sidewalk art demonstrations are planned throughout the weekend, and a live model session with QAA members takes place Sunday, Aug. 7, from 2 to 4 p.m., on the Hancock-Adams Common, 1305 Hancock St. Outdoor art activities are weather permitting.

The Arts Affair in the Square opens this weekend - Saturday, Aug. 6 and Sunday, Aug. 7. Extended hours Aug. 6 and 7 to coincide with the City Multicultural Folk Festival.

Visitors to the QArts Gallery are also invited to check out the Artisan in the Window, Surfside Ceramics Studio of Quincy, and one-of-a-kind creations by fine art crafters and artisans.

Gallery Hours: Thursday and Friday, 2 to 5 p.m., Saturday and Sunday, noon to 5 p.m. Admission is free and

Quincy Lodge Of Elks Awards 15 Students College Scholarships

The Quincy Lodge of Elks #943 recently recognized 15 college-bound high school seniors as part of their annual Elks Scholars program.

This year's recipients are: Christopher Barrett; Ryan Conlon; Nolan Faherty; Brendan Glynn; Allyson Harrington; Mary Kate Higgins; Colin Hingston; Bridget Keane; John Lynch III; Francesca Magnarelli; Isabella Mango; Coleman Ross; Ryan Rusko; Teresa Sheedy; and Gavin Toland.

On June 30, the Elks Lodge recognized this year's scholarship recipients at the annual scholarship awards banquet & dinner. Guest speaker was Norfolk County District Attorney (and Elks member) Michael Morrissey.

State Rep. Bruce Ayers, the chairman of the Elks Scholarship committee, said that this year's class of recipients is a special one.

"We're proud to recognize some outstanding students from Quincy and across the South Shore," Ayers said. "Thanks to the leadership of Exalted Ruler John Connor and his officers and trustees, along with the generosity of the more than 1,300 members of the Quincy Elks, we can help these students financially as they further their academic endeavors."

Zebin He On Dean's List

Zebin He of Quincy has been named to the Dean's List for the spring semester at Western New England University in Springfield.

This year's class of scholarship recipients includes students from nine different high schools, headed to colleges including Saint Anselm, American University, Mass Maritime, UMass Amherst, UConn, and the College of the Holy Cross, among others.

Ayers praised the Elks for all they do to support continuing education.

"The Quincy Lodge of Elks give so much back to the community," Ayers said. "Whether it's through youth support programs; veterans' services; holiday food basket drives; senior activities; or the scholarship program, the Elks are always willing to volunteer their time for the betterment of others."

Nationwide, the Elks are the second-largest provider of financial assistance for continuing education, behind only the United States Government. Over the last 10 years, the Quincy Lodge of Elks has distributed more than $200,000 in scholarship assistance to local students.

Legislature Passes Clean Energy, Offshore Wind Bill

The Massachusetts Legislature has passed a sweeping clean energy bill, an Act driving clean energy and offshore wind. The legislation bolsters green transportation, green buildings, and clean power production, including offshore wind, solar, storage and networked geothermal, while creating thousands of new jobs and economic benefits in the process.

This bill builds upon the Next Generation Climate Roadmap bill, which was passed earlier this legislative session and overhauled the state's climate laws by putting Massachusetts on a path to reach net-zero limit on greenhouse gas emissions by 2050.

"At the beginning of this legislative session, we codified into law the goal of reaching net zero carbon emissions in Massachusetts by 2050. Today, and as the end of the session nears, the Legislature has again passed historic climate legislation that brings the Commonwealth closer to achieving that ever-important goal," said House Speaker Ronald J. Mariano (D-Quincy). "This legislation will make Massachusetts a national leader in energy generated from offshore wind, while creating thousands of new jobs in the process. I want to thank Chairman Jeff Roy and each member of the conference committee, my colleagues in the House, as well as Senate President Karen Spilka and our partners in the Senate for prioritizing the well-being of our climate, and for working diligently to get this done."

Offshore wind

To incentivize the development of the offshore wind industry in Massachusetts, this legislation establishes a Massachusetts Offshore Wind Industry Investment Program, administered by the Massachusetts Clean Energy Center (MassCEC), consisting of annual tax incentives, grants, loans, and other investments through the fund, and assistance from MassCEC in accessing other state or federal economic investment programs. It also creates the Massachusetts Offshore Wind Industry Investment Trust Fund, which can be used to promote the manufacture, fabrication, and assembly of domestic supply chain components of the offshore wind industry; stimulate increased financing for permanent manufacturing facilities; advance clean energy research, technology, and innovation, and;

prepare individuals for offshore wind careers by supporting workforce training at a range of educational institutions and through regional employment boards.

With the goal of making the Massachusetts offshore wind bidding process more competitive, the legislation modifies the price cap to set clear criteria to allow for offshore wind project proposals that are cost-effective and promote economic development in the Commonwealth. Under this legislation, the price cap will be removed if three or more offshore wind developers submit bids, and if less than three companies bid a modified price cap would remain in place. Preference will be given to bids that invest in local manufacturing, provide employment opportunities for underrepresented populations, and mitigate environmental impacts. Ultimately, a contract would only be approved if deemed cost-effective and beneficial to ratepayers.

The legislation also establishes a commercial fisheries commission to provide input on best practices for avoiding, minimizing, and mitigating impacts to wildlife related to offshore energy generation and transmission.

"I'm proud of the work that Massachusetts has done today, once again ensuring we are at the forefront of the fight against climate change. This legislation prioritizes offshore wind generation, grid preparedness, electric vehicle incentives, and innovation and job development in the clean energy sector," said state Rep. Tackey Chan (D-Quincy),

House Chair of the Joint Committee on Consumer Protection and Professional Licensure. "I want to thank Chair Roy, Minority Leader Jones, and my fellow conferees for working together to move Massachusetts further into the 21st century green economy."

"Climate change is one of the great challenges we face, and once again Massachusetts shows that we are a leader in the fight," said Rep. Bruce Ayers (D-Quincy). "These clean energy initiatives will help us reach net-zero carbon emissions by 2050, creating green jobs while prioritizing the health of our environment for future generations."

Hot Pot Restaurant Coming To Billings Road

By SCOTT JACKSON

A new hot pot restaurant is poised to open on Billings Road in North Quincy.

The Board of License Commissioners on July 26 granted an all-alcoholic beverages license to Shabu Shabu One Inc. d/b/a Hot Pot One for the premises at 7 Billings Rd. The restaurant's licensed hours are 8 a.m. to 1 a.m. six days a week, and 10 a.m. to 1 a.m. on Sundays.

Ming Jiang, the manager of the new restaurant, currently operates a pair of Japanese-style restaurants in Boston — one on Boylston Street and the other in Brighton — his attorney, Edward Fleming, told the board.

"Ming lived in Quincy for a number of years and saw the environment in Quincy and the welcome of new business in the area and always wanted to open a restaurant in this location," Fleming said. "When there was an opportunity that presented itself in North Quincy on Billings Road, he took that opportunity."

The new restaurant will be priced competitively, Fleming added.

"It will be a buffet-style hot pot restaurant, which will allow them to price their product in a much more competitive way so it would be available to a lot of folks in the community," he said.

The property at 7 Billings Rd. was the longtime home of Walsh's Restaurant before it closed in the early 2000s.

"It was a very active restaurant at that time," Fleming said.

The building has been home to other commercial uses since Walsh's closed, mostly recently an architectural firm. The building contains about 4,000 square feet of space, which will be converted into a 236-seat restaurant. The majority of those seats, 176, will be located on the first floor of the building, with 60 seats available in the lower level.

Parking for the restaurant will be provided on the lot at 15 Billings Rd., which is located on the opposite side of Holmes Street from the building. Fleming said the lot would be restriped to provide at least 13 spaces. Other parking will be available at the nearby public lot on Vane Street.

Should you go back to a 30-year mortgage?

People are thinking about mortgages differently. Right now we're seeing borrowers who went with shorter terms going back to a 30-year loan. Some are tapping their equity for home improvements, college tuition or to consolidate other debt at a locked-in guaranteed low rate. Others just want a more comfortable monthly payment, less stress and more cash flow. It works because mortgage rates are still historically low. And if you want, you can always pay the new 30-year loan off more aggressively... but you don't have to. Would a new 30-year mortgage make sense for you? Heat stress in plants

If the temperatures in your area are staying higher than normal, it's tempting to water your outdoor plants more often than you usually do to protect them from the heat. But this may not be helpful! Heat stress is not the same as drought, and too much water in the soil can cause fungal diseases and root rot. It may be more prudent to refresh your mulch: a three-inch-thick layer over the root zone can insulate the roots against the heat and help retain moisture in the soil longer.

Clean Energy, Offshore Wind Bill

horticultural land to be used to site solar panels as long as they do not impede the continued use of the land for agricultural or horticultural use, eliminates the so-called 'donut hole' for on-site solar energy net metering to promote residential solar, and loosens the so-called single parcel rule to help expand solar on sites where it already exists.

In addition to wind and solar power, the bill addresses other innovative sources of clean energy such as fusion energy and geothermal power. Acknowledging the harmful health and environmental impacts of utility-scale biomass power plant facilities, this legislation removes biomass from the list of energy-generating sources that are allowed to receive certain state incentives for generating clean electricity. To ensure that the Commonwealth has adequate storage systems to accommodate increasing amounts of clean energy that Massachusetts will be adding to its energy portfolio, this bill directs a study of how to optimize the deployment of long-term energy storage systems.

The legislation also modernizes Massachusetts' electrical grid and energy storage infrastructure. It requires utility companies to proactively upgrade the transmission and distribution grid to improve reliability and resilience and accommodate the anticipated significant shift to renewable forms of energy.

As the transportation sector is the largest source of fuel emissions in Massachusetts, the bill takes steps to encourage the use of electric vehicles, including expanding and codifying the state's MOR-EV electric vehicle incentive program into statute, which provides rebates to individuals who purchase electric vehicles.

"The Commonwealth needs to act with urgency to mitigate the devastating consequences of climate change. With so many factors driving this warming trend, the challenge before us can often feel overwhelming, but the bill passed by the Legislature gives hope," said state Sen. John F. Keenan (D-Quincy). "A large piece of this puzzle is increasing the usage of electric vehicles, which is why I worked to ensure the Commonwealth would install charging stations at public transit hubs and responsibly administer its new EV rebate program. These measures will help to make EVs a more affordable and useful option for Massachusetts drivers."

Under the bill, the rebate amount will increase by $1,000, to $3,500 for passenger cars and light-duty trucks. Moreover, electric vehicle purchasers who trade in their emission-producing vehicles will be eligible for an additional incentive of $1,000. The program may include a point-of-sale rebate model for individual purchases that offers consumers savings at the point of purchase or lease. The bill also makes used vehicles eligible for rebates. Further, the bill directs the Department of Energy Resources (DOER) to conduct an outreach campaign to promote awareness about the MOR-EV program among consumers and businesses in underserved and low-income communities, as well as in communities with high proportions of high-emission vehicles.

To expand access to electric vehicle charging stations, this bill convenes an interagency coordinating council to develop and implement a charging infrastructure deployment plan in an equitable and comprehensive manner.

The Department of Public Utilities (DPU) would be required to set vehicle electrification and greenhouse gas emission requirements for electric vehicles for transportation network companies. In addition, to ensure that zero-emission vehicle charging remains affordable for consumers, the bill requires all electricity companies to submit proposals to DPU for how they will offer reduced electricity rates for consumers who charge their zero-emission vehicles at off-peak times.

Finally, the bill takes historic steps to address emissions that come from MBTA bus fleets. Starting in 2030, this bill requires every passenger bus that is purchased or leased by the MBTA to be a zero-emission vehicle. By the end of 2040, the MBTA will be required to operate exclusively zero-emission vehicles. Underserved and low-income communities would be prioritized for the equitable deployment of these zero-emission buses.

To tackle the difficult issue of emissions from the building sector, the bill creates a 10-municipality demonstration project allowing all-electric building construction by local option. Participating municipalities must receive local approval before applying into the demonstration project. The measure has two important provisos: first, each community must first meet certain affordable housing or multifamily development thresholds; and second, each must exempt life sciences labs and health care facilities from the all-electric requirement.

The bill makes targeted enhancements to the Mass Save program, which provides rebates and incentives for owners and renters related to efficient appliances and other home energy improvements. Under the bill, priority for Mass Save projects will be given to those that maximize net climate, environmental, and equity impacts. Beginning in 2025, Mass Save funds will also be limited in most instances from going to any fossil fuel equipment.

This bill requires DPU to conduct an adjudicatory proceeding prior to approving any company-specific plan under the DPU's future of heat proceedings. In addition, the bill requires DPU to convene a stakeholder working group to develop regulatory and legislative recommendations for how Massachusetts can best align the Commonwealth's gas system enhancement program with the state's 2050 net-zero goal. The working group must submit its final recommendations to the Legislature by July 31, 2023.

School Officials Looking At New Ways To Honor Mario Casali

tral Middle School was named in Mr. Casali's honor in December 2013, shortly after the new building opened. Two plaques hang outside the gym -- one with Mr. Casali's picture and the other stating the gym had been dedicated in his honor and hailing him as a "teacher, coach, mentor [and] colleague."

In a recent interview, Supt. Kevin Mulvey said he has been in discussions with members of the School Committee on additional ways to recognize Mr. Casali for his contributions.

"He was definitely a very big presence within the Quincy Public Schools. Even long after he retired, people still talked about Mr. Casali -- not only as when he was a gym teacher, but guidance counselor and then coach," Mulvey said.

"That's certainly something that I think members of the School Committee would want to pursue and I'm certain that his family too would like to probably be involved in that as well. I talked to them while I was at that wake and they basically said his life was the Quincy Public Schools. They had encouraged him to retire for years and years and years; he resisted until the very last moment. The Quincy Public Schools was his life -- obviously second to his family.

"He was a great guy and I am certainly open to doing more for him, whether it's at Central or something else."

Mulvey noted that Paul Bregoli, one of the members of the School Committee, is "a very big fan of Mr. Casali" having been a student and athlete under him at Central.

"I know Mr. Bregoli has some ideas," the superintendent said. "What they are, I'm not precisely sure just yet."

Bike Commuting Basics Class At Crane Library Aug. 10

The public is invited to the Thomas Crane Public Library Community Meeting Room on Wednesday, Aug. 10 for a bike commuting basics class. The program will be held from 6 to 8 p.m.

Gas prices have increased and e-bikes are making riding easier. Is it time for you to start bike commuting?

This class is for you if you've thought about riding a bike to work but don't know where to start. A League of American Bicyclists Certified Instructor will answer your questions and address your concerns.

This class will cover selecting gear for safety and comfort, planning your route, following rules of the road, and taking the bus or MBTA with your bike.

The program is sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

The Thomas Crane Public Library is located at 40 Washington St., Quincy Center.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A February 1936 postcard reproduction showing the nearly completed $2.4 million Fore River Bridge. Built during the Great Depression, the total cost was paid out of Federal Public Works Administration funds. State engineers designed the bridge and managed its construction by the V. Bartletta Co. of Roslindale. It took only two years to build and put to work hundreds of unemployed construction workers. But at the time people and politicians were opposed to using federal funds for local construction projects, and when completed, opening dedication ceremonies were delayed for almost three months due to bickering between federal, state, city and town officials. Finally in May, Gov. James Michael Curley, escorted by an armed military guard, stood at the center of the drawbridge among several thousand celebrants to dedicate the bridge. In his remarks, Gov. Curley boldly lauded President Franklin Roosevelt and his New Deal, which provided the funds. He added that Quincy or Weymouth or Norfolk County never would have built the bridge and so let us "thank God for a man like Franklin Roosevelt." This bascule bridge was demolished in 2004. A temporary vertical lift bridge was erected in 2006 and remained in place until a new $272 million bridge was completed 2018. By the way, the blueprints of the old bridge shown here won an award in 1936 as the most magnificent bridge built in America that year.

McIntyre Seeks $700,000 For New FR Bridge Design

Mayor-Senator James R. McIntyre is seeking a $700,000 state allocation to pave the way for a new $11 million Fore River Bridge.

McIntyre asked Governor Francis W. Sargent this week to request the funds from the House Ways and Means Committee for the design, plans and specifications for the new vertical lift-type bridge.

McIntyre wrote to Sargent in a letter, that the new bridge would enable the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard to bid on super-sized aircraft carriers and tankers, which now cannot get through the present bridge.

State Public Works Commissioner Edward J. Ribbs last week estimated the cost of a new vertical lift-bridge at $11 million.

GEORGE BURKE, RICHARD BARRY BREAKING UP LONG-TIME TEAM

One of Quincy's youngest but most prominent political-professional teams is breaking up.

Norfolk County District Attorney George G. Burke, 37, and First Assistant Richard W. Barry, 35, a virtual definition of "togetherness" for nearly 20 years, are parting.

They will go their separate ways at the end of August, but remain as close friends as ever. Barry is voluntarily stepping down as Burke's first assistant at the end of the month to devote full-time to his private law practice.

"I hate to see Dick leave," said Burke. "During the past several years handled a number of big cases, including several murders and never lost one."

myself," Fleming said. "I've watched the usage of that parking areas...and many times there are spaces available within that Vane Street parking area."

The restaurateurs will hire locally, he added, not only to provide employment opportunities for local residents but also to encourage those employees to walk, use public transportation, or get rides to get to work.

The board granted the license in a unanimous vote.

"I am in favor of this," said Health Commissioner Marli Casli. "I do love hot pot, so I'm looking forward to it."

The restaurant previously received permission to move into the space from the Zoning Board of Appeals.

In additional business on July 26, the board continued until Aug. 16 the hearing on the request of Off the Hook Bar and Grill, 1269 Sea St., for an alteration of the licensed premises to reflect outdoor dining and patio areas of 1,625 sq. ft., which includes the addition of a new walk-up bar with four seats. The outdoor dining area would accommodate a total of 44 seats.

Rob Fleming, the attorney representing restaurant owner John Galligan, said the alteration of the licensed premises was being sought to correct an error in the square footage shown in the original approval for the patio space; the square footage shown in that approval is less than what was built. Secondly, Galligan is seeking to add a small bar in one of those patio areas, Fleming said.

Jay Duca, the city's director of inspectional services, said he issued a stop-work order after the outdoor bar was installed without permits. The outdoor bar has remained unused since then.

Two abutters of Off the Hook raised concerns about the proposal during the July 26 hearing, while two other area residents spoke in favor of it. City Clerk Nicole Crispo said 23 residents sent her letters in favor of the request while one person was opposed.

Following the public comments, Duca and Crispo both encouraged Galligan to work with his neighbors to address concerns they may have about the request. Crispo further suggested the board on Aug. 16 could grant Galligan permission to use the outdoor bar on a trial basis on up to five separate days to see how it goes.

In other business on July 26, the Board of License Commissioners:

Granted a special-use permit and one-day liquor license to the city of Quincy for the kickoff of the Multicultural Folk Festival featuring Ronan Tynan on Saturday evening at the Hancock-Adams Common. The Quincy Chamber of Commerce will also be able to keep its beer garden at Kilroy Square open until 11 p.m. on Saturday; Chamber President Tim Cahill said there would be a meet and greet with Tynan from 8 to 10 p.m.

Granted a gasoline/repair license to Prestige Car Wash for the premises at 635 Washington St., currently All in One Automotive, following a change in ownership. The business's hours of operation are 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Approved the transfer of the innholder all-alcoholic beverages license held by the Boston Marriott Quincy to a new ownership group. The hours for alcohol service at the hotel will be 8 a.m. to 1 a.m. six days a week, and 10 a.m. to 1 a.m. on Sundays.

Approved the request of S&G Restaurant Company d/b/a South Garden Seafood for change in corporate name from Honey Café Inc, as well as changes in officers and directors and ownership interest. The restaurant is located at 217 B Quincy Ave.

Approved the request of the Quincy Lodge of Elks, 254 Quarry St., for a change in manager from Patrick McGetrick to John Connor.

Mayukh is the son of the late Dr. Bijan Kr. Bhadra and Mrs. Jharna Bhadra of Calcutta, India. Shelley and Mayukh currently live in Quincy.

Erika Logan Joins QC Nursing Division

Erika Logan, BSN, RN, PMH-BC, has joined the nursing division at Quincy College where she will lead efforts to enhance the college's behavioral health nursing concentration. Through development and implementation of a concept-based approach to learning, Quincy College is committed to raising awareness among students of career opportunities in behavioral health nursing, a specialty where there is an acute national shortage of clinicians.

Logan, a Pembroke resident, has extensive experience in behavioral health nursing including most recently as a member of the Acute Psychiatric Service at Massachusetts General Hospital. She worked as a psychiatric registered nurse at Newton-Wellesley Hospital, was a nursing supervisor at the former Pembroke Hospital, and is also a state-certified Sexual Assault Forensic Nurse Examiner (SANE). She is herself a graduate of Quincy College's Associate's degree in Nursing program and subsequently earned her Bachelor's degree in Nursing from Curry College, where she is currently pursuing her Master's degree in Nursing Education.

"We're fortunate to have someone with Erika's clinical experience return to our campus and join our nursing faculty," said Dr. Richard DeCristofaro, president of Quincy College. "She's passionate about her specialty and uniquely qualified to help inspire our nursing students to consider and ultimately pursue careers in behavioral health nursing."

Last fall, Quincy College was awarded a four-year, $300,000 grant from Mass General Brigham (MGB) to integrate components of behavioral health nursing into its existing curriculum. The grant, part of an overall $50 million MGB investment in a comprehensive Eastern Massachusetts community and mental health strategy, is designed to increase the College's capacity to graduate students capable of entering the field of behavioral/mental health nursing where they promote health and wellness through identification, treatment, and prevention of mental health and/or psychiatric disorders. MGB believes the grant award to Quincy College is an investment in a nursing program that can help contribute to a robust, long-term, regional behavioral health nursing talent pipeline.

The need for these specialized clinicians is growing, both nationally and regionally: the US Department of Health Resources and Services Administration reports a current nationwide shortage of nearly 1 million behavioral health/mental health nurses, and 20 Greater Boston communities have been designated as Health Professional Shortage Areas in which the ratio of mental health professionals to residents is fewer than 1 per 30,000 people.

Sophia And Ellie's Banana Chocolate Chip Cake With Peanut Butter Frosting

By MARIE

A while back while visiting my daughter, Nancy, my granddaughters Sophia and Ellie were baking a banana chocolate chip cake with peanut butter frosting.

Both of my granddaughters learned to bake at a very young age and both of them are still baking tasty treats to this day. That day, when I got to Nancy's, the cake was already in the oven. The aroma was fantastic and Nancy and I could not wait until it was done.

Once done and cooled, they frosted the cake with peanut butter frosting – and we all enjoyed it as I hope you will all enjoy this most delicious recipe.

This is going to make a double layer cake. Use parchment paper or grease two cake pans.

Preheat oven to 350 grease or line with parchment paper - two 8 x 8 x 2 pans

Ingredients and Directions

3 cups of flour
2 teaspoons of baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 and 1/2 cups sugar
2 sticks of unsalted butter
1/2 cup brown sugar
3 eggs
1 teaspoon of vanilla
2 cups of ripe bananas, mashed

1 cup sour cream
1 10-ounce bag mini chocolate chips

Place the flour, baking soda and salt in a bowl.

In a larger bowl beat sugar, butter, and brown sugar until light and fluffy.

Add the eggs one at a time.

Beat in the vanilla, add rest of dry ingredients to the mixture and mix until everything is blended on low speed.

Add bananas and sour cream and then fold in chocolate chips.

Divide the batter evenly into the two pans and bake 35 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean.

When cake is cooled, frost with peanut butter frosting.

Peanut Butter Frosting

2 cups of creamy peanut butter
1 and 1/2 cups powdered sugar
2 sticks of unsalted butter
2 and 1/2 teaspoons of vanilla
Chocolate chips or Hershey Kisses

Beat first 4 ingredients for 2 or 3 minutes until fluffy.

Place one of the cakes on a platter and spread center with frosting and place second cake on top.

Cover top and sides of cake and garnish with chips or kisses.

Refrigerate before serving.

Low-Carb Zucchini Bread

By SUZIE

My brother Domenic grows the most amazing zucchinis that I have ever tasted (or seen). I am lucky enough to have ample amounts to make this healthy recipe for low carb zucchini bread.

I love it toasted with butter and jam. Zucchini is rich in vitamins B6 (which helps regulate blood glucose) and also contains lutein and zeaxanthin for eye health, among other things such as fiber and potassium.

Low-Carb Zucchini Bread
 By Elena's Pantry

Ingredients

2 1/2 cups blanched almond flour (not almond meal)
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon celtic sea salt
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
4 large eggs
3 tablespoons maple syrup
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 1/2 cups grated zucchini (8 ounces)

Combine dry ingredients in large bowl.

Add the rest of the ingredients and mix until just combined.

Transfer batter to a greased 9 x 5 inch loaf dish.

Bake at 350°F for 1 hour.

Cool for 1 hour.

BBB Scam Alert: Watch Out For Rental Scams When Planning A Party

By BETTER
BUSINESS BUREAU

If you are planning a party and need to rent chairs, decorations, a bouncy house, or any other supplies, scammers are looking to target you.

BBB Scam Tracker is getting reports of party hosts tricked by rentals that don't materialize. Before planning your next party, get to know this scam to avoid being conned.

How The Scam Works

You are planning a party and need to rent supplies. You do a web or social media search and find a few options. For example, you may find a website that looks legitimate and has a convenient online booking system. Or you might message someone through a social media account that seems professional. Either way, the "vendor" promises to reserve your rental for the date you need it – if you pay a deposit first. They may also require you to fill out a contact form with your personal details.

The date of your party arrives, and your rental tent, furniture, or other supplies don't arrive. At this point, the "vendor" may tell you they've had an emergency and can't deliver on their promise. However, when you ask for your money back, the scammers will disappear completely. Other times, you can't contact the rental company at all.

One consumer reported this experience to BBB Scam Tracker: "The day of the event, the rental never came. I called the phone number, and it went straight to an answering machine... I left several messages. None have been returned, and it has now been two months."

How To Avoid Rental Scams

• Do your research before you rent. Look for the rental company's website and ensure it has accurate contact information. Then, read consumer reviews

Luz Andino Receives Vehicle From Car-Donation Nonprofit Good News Garage

Gas prices and inflation are only the most recent struggle. Record-high car prices have persisted for over a year, leaving many people unable to afford safe and reliable vehicles. Fortunately for a Quincy woman, a donated car is bringing relief from her transportation struggles and enabling her to move forward in life.

Earlier this month, Luz Andino was awarded a 2013 Nissan Altima from the car-donation nonprofit Good News Garage. The organization was founded in Vermont in 1996 as one of the nation's first charitable car donation programs. Over the last 25 years, it has helped car donors give over 5,500 vehicles to neighbors in need, putting them on the road to self-sufficiency.

"I wanted to thank you for your car donation," Andino told the donor of her new car in a written note. "You have given me a huge steppingstone in my life."

A national car shortage is driving up the prices for new and used cars to record highs. Many low-income individuals and families are unable to afford reliable vehicles, which brings their lives to a screeching halt. According to Good News Garage, the need for donated vehicles is at a critical level. Donations are down and being far outpaced by the demand and need for reliable used cars.

"While we can't solve the car shortage, we can certainly help some of those who are being hit the hardest," said Cash Cranson, director of operations at Good News Garage. "However, our ability to help is limited by the number of car donations we receive. During this difficult time, choosing to donate your car is an act of kindness and compassion that makes a huge, immediate impact."

Good News Garage awards cars to Massachusetts residents through a partnership with the Massachusetts Rehabilitation Commission (MRC). Car recipients must be employed or have a written plan for employment and meet other qualifying criteria. This program is administered out of Good News Garage's Manchester, New Hampshire office.

For more information or to donate, visit www.GoodNewsGarage.org.

Good News Garage is a member of Ascentria Care Alliance, one of the largest human services organizations in New England. With locations throughout the region, Ascentria is creating measurable, positive impact in communities by empowering people to reach beyond life's challenges and thrive. Baker Signs $52.7 Billion Fiscal Year 2023 Budget

Gov. Charlie Baker July 28th signed the Fiscal Year 2023 (FY23) budget. The $52.7 billion spending plan fully funds the continued implementation of the Student Opportunity Act, while expanding proven programs and making record investments in early education and childcare, housing and homeownership, college financial aid, economic and workforce development, behavioral health care and local aid, the governor's office stated in a press release.

The FY23 budget is in balance, does not rely on one-time revenue sources, and does not raise any new taxes or fees; rather, it incorporates $315 million to support permanent tax reductions that are expected to be enacted through separate legislation pending in the Legislature. Several of the expected tax measures were first proposed in the Administration's FY23 budget plan filed in January, including an increase to the rental deduction cap, expansions of the dependent care and senior circuit breaker tax credits, and estate tax reforms.

"With the Commonwealth in a historically strong fiscal position, the FY23 budget supports tax relief for hundreds of thousands of taxpayers, while making record investments in education and local aid,"

Baker said. "Since coming into office, our Administration has worked closely with the Legislature to ensure the budget is structurally sound and protected from unpredictable economic fluctuations, and I am pleased to sign another budget that maintains this commitment while making investments help Massachusetts' families and communities grow and thrive."

"The FY23 budget maintains our Administration's strong support for the Commonwealth's cities and towns and expands services in acute areas of need, like housing stability, education and childcare access, workforce development, transportation, substance addiction treatment and behavioral health care," said Lt. Gov. Karyn Polito. "This funding will further our work to encourage the economic growth of our communities, promote equitable access to opportunity and support the health and well-being of all residents."

The FY23 budget incorporates an upgraded $39.576 billion base tax revenue forecast, an increase of $2.66 billion above the total

FY23 consensus tax projection set in January. This revenue supports a total of $52.7 billion in gross spending, excluding the Medical Assistance Trust Fund transfer, which reflects approximately 9.3% growth in appropriations over Fiscal Year 2022 (FY22).

As enacted, the budget anticipates a sizable deposit into the Stabilization Fund of nearly $1.5 billion, which would increase the balance of the Fund from an already historic high of $6.9 billion to $8.4 billion. This would represent a $7.3 billion increase in the balance of the Stabilization Fund since the Baker-Polito Administration came into office in 2015 – an achievement made possible by the Administration and Legislature's close collaboration and commitment to responsible management of the Commonwealth's finances.

"Fiscal responsibility has been a cornerstone of the Baker-Polito Administration, and we are proud of the work that has been done over the last seven years to bring the budget into structural balance and build up reserves, which will protect the Commonwealth from economic volatility and ensure the continuity of vital government services in the long-term," said Administration and Finance Secretary Michael J. Heffernan. "We thank our colleagues in the Legislature for their partnership in developing this impactful spending plan that sustains critical supports for the Commonwealth's communities, families, and workers."

The revenue upgrade incorporated into the budget also affords a number of substantial one-time transfers and reserves in FY23, including: a $266 million reserve to support MBTA safety and workforce initiatives; a $175 million transfer to a new trust fund dedicated to supporting high-quality early education and care; a $150 million transfer to the Student Opportunity Act Investment Fund; $100 million for a supplemental transfer to the Commonwealth's Pension Liability Fund; and $100 million for a transfer to the State Retiree Benefits Trust Fund.

Social Security Matters

Ask Rusty: How Do We Apply For My Wife's Spousal Benefit?

By RUSSELL GLOOR

National Social Security Advisor
at the AMAC Foundation, The Non-Profit Arm of the Association of Mature American Citizens

Dear Rusty: I am 70 years old and just started receiving my Social Security benefits about 4 months ago and I get close to $3,700 per month. My wife is 65 years old and worked sporadically over the years so is entitled to her own benefits. If we applied under her account, she would get around $300 a month. If she applies under the spousal benefits, she should get a lot more, but we are not exactly sure how to apply for spousal benefits under her existing account. Can you help guide us? Signed: Uncertain How to Proceed

Dear Uncertain: Your wife can apply for both her own SS retirement benefit (from her own lifetime work record) and her spousal benefit from you, at the same time. In fact, when she applies for her own Social Security benefit, since you are now collecting your benefits she will be automatically deemed to be filing also for her spousal benefit from you.

Your wife's Social Security payment will actually consist of two elements – her own earned benefit and a "spousal boost" to bring her to her spousal entitlement. So, when she applies for her own SS benefit, she will also get a spousal boost to make her payment equal to what she is entitled to as your spouse. She can apply by calling Social Security at your local office or calling the national service center at 1-800-772-1213 to request an appointment. She also has the option to apply for her benefits online at www.ssa.gov which is, by far, the most efficient way. To apply online, your wife will need to first create her personal "my Social Security" online account, which is easy to do at www.ssa.gov/myaccount. When your wife fills out the application for her benefits, she will be able to identify you as her spouse, and she should use the "Remarks" section of the application to emphasize that she wishes to receive her spousal benefits as well.

Just for your awareness, your wife's spousal benefit will be based on your full retirement age (FRA) benefit amount, not your age 70 amount, and if she claims at age 65 her benefits will be reduced because she hasn't yet reached her own full retirement age (which is 66 years and 4 months if she was born in 1956). Your wife's personal benefit will be reduced by .556% for each month earlier than her FRA that she claims, and her spousal boost will be reduced by .694% for each month earlier than her FRA she claims. So, if your wife claims her benefit before her full retirement age, her payment will be less than 50% of your FRA benefit amount.

On Thursday, July 21, at approximately 11:15 p.m., officers received a report of a neighbor that was breaking the LED lights on the victim's home. Quincy Police patrol units responded.

During that call, the suspect was irritated and remained so despite officer efforts to calm him. He was evaluated by Brewster EMS and found not to be in need of their services. The victim told officers they did not want to pursue charges. What they wanted was for the suspect to leave them alone. The suspect was advised and officers cleared the scene.

On Friday, July 22, at approximately 12:45 a.m., approximately 30 minutes after clearing the scene, officers were called back to the residence on a report that the suspect was now yelling at the victim's family and making threats. Sergeant Church and Sergeant Parisi were in the area and on scene less than one minute from the call being broadcast. Sgt. Church spoke with victim who said the suspect was making threats and yelling at them so loudly they could hear him over their running air conditioner. They said they were tired and wanted to sleep. They also mentioned this is not the first night the suspect has behaved in such a manner.

Sgt. Church and Sergeant Parisi observed the suspect and listened as he made a myriad of defensive threats directed at both officers and the victim's family. He bragged about his fighting skills. He threatened the victim and his family saying such things like if they came on his property he would bash their heads and rip their throats out. He made several comments about how he was an American and they weren't. He said he wanted them out of the neighborhood.

The suspect vented his anger about the family's yard lights and then appeared to calm down. The residence was displaying soft white lights on a string wrapped around the front stairs banister. They also had a few short (8-inch) solar powered patio lights stuck into the front yard. None of the lights were specifically directed toward the suspect's house, nor did they produce harsher or stronger light than that of the average porch light. With the suspect calmer than when they arrived, police units left the area.

Not trusting the suspect would remain calm, Sergeant Parisi stayed in the area and directed Officer McGrath and Officer Foley to do the same. Within minutes of police leaving, the suspect began his profanity laced tirade again. The threats were once again offensive. He also screamed out that it takes police at least five minutes to respond if 911 was called. He made it clear he could commit an act of violence and be gone before authorities arrived. He also said he would burn his hand or stab himself then tell police they (the victims) did it and he would have them arrested.

Suspect's threats then turned into a countdown. He said he was going to get his stick, put on his sneakers, then go to their house to break their lights and f%*^ them up.

From his vantage point, Sergeant Parisi could see the suspect sitting on a sidewalk bench and putting his shoes on. Sergeant Parisi advised dispatch that the suspect's behavior reached the point where police intervention was necessary and asked for the staged units to come to the scene. Before units arrived, the suspect finished putting his shoes on and went down the victim's driveway. The suspect reappeared in front of the house and was making his way toward the front door when Sergeant Parisi intercepted him. Sergeant Parisi demanded the suspect to drop the stick he was holding. The suspect did not comply.

Sergeant Parisi attempted to disarm the suspect by deploying his department issued pepper spray. It had no effect. After more commands to put the stick down, the suspect did so and stepped toward the victim's front door where the residents were standing. Although he dropped the stick, he had not calmed down and Sergeant Parisi believed a battery was imminent on anyone the suspect could reach. With the intention of taking the suspect into custody, Sergeant Parisi ordered him to the ground. Not only did he not comply with the order, he told Sergeant Parisi he wasn't going to do it then turned around and moved toward his stick.

Sergeant Parisi then grabbed the suspect and both fell to the ground. Sergeant Parisi then placed the suspect into handcuffs as backup units arrived. Noticing the suspect now had a minor scrap on his face, Brewster Ambulance was called. They evaluated the suspect and determined he did not need medical attention.

Sergeant Parisi then spoke with the victims. All expressed a fear of the suspect. The victim pointed out that more of their yard lights were broken. He said he was not willing to forgive this and wanted charges pressed. The victim also pointed out that the suspect attached a small portable light to the fence between the two properties. The light was positioned to face the victim's home in an obvious attempt to annoy the victim and his family.

During the past 24 hours, the police were aware of at least three separate incidents where the suspect deliberately spoke and acted in a manner designed to harass the victims. Given that each of these incidents included racial slurs and threats of violence, it is believed that the suspect's conduct was motivated by the victim's race. The Harassment Prevention Order (HPO) process was discussed with the victim and his family.

The suspect was arrested and transported to the Quincy Police Station where he was booked on the following charges: malicious damage to property, resisting arrest, disturbing the peace, three (3) counts of civil rights violation, and three (3) counts criminal harassment.

Need A New Driveway? Beware Asphalt Paving Scams

By BETTER
BUSINESS BUREAU

If your driveway needs paving or repairs, don't trust just anyone to do the job. BBB Scam Tracker has numerous reports of unscrupulous contractors who trick homeowners with supposedly good deals. Homeowners end up with shoddy pavement -- or nothing at all -- to show for what they paid and, in some cases, have lost over $8,000 in the process.

How The Scam Works

A contractor leaves a pamphlet or shows up at the door. They claim they've been doing work in the area and just happened to notice the condition of your driveway or sidewalk. Since they're already working nearby, they can give you a discount. If the price is agreeable, they will then ask for a large percentage of the fee upfront. There is some hesitancy if there is a question on the price or details about the business and its location.

Once the transaction is complete, the scam contractor may disappear altogether. The contact number or email may not work, quickly helping you realize that the contact information was a sham. If you protest, the contractor may use intimidation tactics, such as threatening a lawsuit, to convince you to pay up.

In other cases, once complete, the contractor's work is shoddy and unprofessional, but the full payment has been made. Reaching the company the contractor allegedly represented is impossible, or another company was impostored in the process. In any of these scenarios, the chances of getting a refund or the work fixed are slim.

How To Avoid
Contractor Scams

• Be wary of unsolicited offers. Most scams involving contractors begin when a random contractor makes an effort to go out of their way to offer an estimate that was never requested.

• Research companies and contractors before you hire. Start with BBB.org. If the contractor has multiple negative reviews and complaints, don't hire them. Often, a simple internet search will reveal companies or individuals that have been involved in fraudulent activities or provided unsatisfactory work to

Children's Activities, Events At Crane Library In August

By JULIE RINES
Children's Coordinator

Thomas Crane Public Library

The following events and activities for children are scheduled during August at the Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy.

Summer Reading Challenge

Join us for a summer reading challenge as we go "Beyond the Beaten Path" this summer. The reading challenge runs from July 1st through Aug. 31st. Sign up online using our Beanstack tracking software. Access Beanstack at thomas-cranelibrary.beanstack.org or download the Beanstack app and choose Thomas Crane as your library. If you would like you can also pick up a paper reading log and stickers at any library location.

Once you have completed your challenge on Beanstack you will be entered into our end of summer raffle which will be drawn on Thursday, Sept. 1st.

Crafts @ Adams Shore For All Ages

Stop by the Adams Shore Branch every Monday afternoon at 2 p.m. through Aug. 22nd this summer to do some crafting. Each week we will be creating a different nature/camping themed craft.

Can't join us on Mondays? Stop by Adams Shore during our open hours to pick up a craft to take and make at home, while supplies last.

LEGO Building @ Wollaston

Stop by the Wollaston Branch Library every Wednesday through Aug. 24th from 1:30 - 8 p.m. for free-play LEGO building. Grab some LEGO bricks and build a boat, a spaceship, a double-decker couch - anything you want, then toss them back and try to make something else. LEGOs must be returned by the end of the program, sorry!

Parents please note regular LEGO are intended for children ages 5 and older. DUPLO and other building toys will be available for younger children.

Lantern Craft @ AS Ages 5+

Join us at Adams Shore on Wednesday, Aug. 3rd at 2 p.m. to create an "illuminating" craft project. We'll use simple materials; a plastic water bottle, tissue paper and Mod Pod to create a one of a kind lantern that will glow like stained glass when we add a battery operated tea light.

Campfire Storytime Ages 3+

Join us at our indoor camp site on Wednesday, Aug. 3rd at 6:30 p.m. for a cozy storytime full of stories, songs and fun.

Puppet Tales with Leigh @ North Quincy Ages 3 And Older

Join us at the North Quincy Branch Library on Thursday, Aug. 4th at 3 p.m. where Through Me To You Puppetry invites you to join Newton and his puppet friends for some storytime fun!

Newton and his friends take turns reading stories and singing songs with the kids. At the end of the show, the kids are invited to say "hi" to Newton. Our half-hour show is geared to ages 3-7, but all are welcome!

Sponsored by Friends of the Thomas Crane Library.

Mini Art Camp: Alma Thomas (Ages 3+)

Join us on Friday, Aug. 5th at 10 a.m. for a mini art camp to discover the life and art of Alma Thomas! We'll read and learn about how she became an artist and then create a piece of art inspired by her creative style.

This program is for children ages 3 and older accompanied by an adult. Dress to get messy!

Animal World Experience

"Jackson's Wild Adventure" Ages 4+

Join us at the Main Library on Monday, Aug. 8 at 10 a.m. for a very special program with Matt Gabriel from Animal World Experience.

Matt will read his children's book, "Jackson's Wild Adventure," featuring his oldest son Jackson and several of the animals that Jackson grew up with at Animal World Experience.

After the book reading, we will get to actually meet & pet several of the animals from the book!

This program is recommended for children ages 4 and older accompanied by an adult. Parents please stay close to younger children and help them to be gentle with the animals.

Sponsored by QCC.

Animal World Experience @AS Ages 4+

Join Matt from Animal World Experience on Tuesday, Aug. 9th at 10 a.m. at the Adams Shore Branch for a live animal show.

Our animal visitors will be a surprise but there will be time to pet them all as Matt tells us about animals we may expect to find in our own backyards and what makes them special.

This program is recommended for children ages 4 and older accompanied by an adult. Parents please stay close to younger children and help them to be gentle with the animals.

Sponsored by QCC.

Phoenix Book Group Grades 5-8

Children entering grades 5 through 8 are invited to join us on Tuesday, Aug. 9th at 7 p.m. to discuss Disaster Days by Rebecca Behrens on Tuesday, Aug. 9th at 7 p.m. in the Main Library Children's Room.

Hannah Steele loves living on Pelling, a tiny island near Seattle. She's always felt totally safe there. So when she's asked to babysit after school one day, it's no big deal. Then the shaking begins.

The terrifying earthquake only lasts four minutes, but it changes everything—damaging the house, knocking out the power, and making cell service nonexistent. Even worse, the ferry and the bridge connecting the kids to help—and their parents—are both blocked, which means they're stranded alone. And Hannah's in charge as things go from bad to worse.

Copies of the book are available to check out in the Main Library Children's room or as an e-book on Hoopla and Overdrive/Libby.

Music & Movement @North Quincy Ages 0-6

Miss Rubi is so happy to be able to join us for Music and Movement at the North Quincy Branch on Wednesday, Aug. 10th at 10:30 a.m.

Music and Movement has become so popular we will be doing something new. Starting this summer our programs will be split into 2 half hour sessions. The first half hour (10:30-11 a.m.) will be especially for our youngest fans, ages 0-2 years. This session will feature baby bounces, tickles, wiggles, finger plays and nursery rhymes with parent participation.

Beginning at 11 a.m. this session will present a program more suitable for ages 3 and older full of large scale movements, rhythm clapping, finger plays and nursery rhymes including early literacy and music activities. Parent participation highly encouraged.

So put on your favorite dancing shoes and join us for this lively mix of music and movement. Please bring a stuffie along with you to join the fun.

These programs are especially good for children ages 0-6, but anyone who needs a dance break will have a lot of fun.

Sponsored by the Friends.

S'mores Cupcake decorating @AS Ages 6+ Registration Required

Registration required limit 20.

Love s'mores? Join us at the Adams Shore Library on Wednesday, Aug. 10th at 2 p.m. for a creative way to decorate a cupcake to look like a campfire, complete with mini marshmallows to "toast."

This program is for children ages 6 and older. Registration is required and is limited to Quincy residents. Register through our online calendar. Registration began Aug. 1.

Preschool Discovery @ Wollaston Ages 3-5

Drop by the Wollaston Library with your preschooler, ages 3-5, any time between 3 and 4 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 11th to do some fun simple science together. Activities, experiments and instructions will be provided for science you can do with your child.

Come in and do some of our favorite science activities from the past year of Preschool Discovery! Did you have fun making things sink and float? Did you miss out on making constellations? Did you want to try building a new marble run? Try out all these and more!

Water Balloon Play Ages 5+

Did you know National Water Balloon Day was celebrated on Aug. 5th? We may be a little late but join us on Friday, Aug. 12th at 10 a.m. on the main library lawn where we'll be celebrating with loads of watery fun perfect for a hot summer's day.

This program is recommended for children ages 5 and older as we will be tossing water balloons around. Parents it is very likely that children will get wet so dress appropriately.

In case of inclement weather we will move inside and play some drier games.

Toy Time for ages 9-23 months

Come to the library on Tuesdays, Aug. 16th and 23rd for a free playtime session with your baby full of age appropriate toys and activities plus socializing with other children and caregivers.

A fun time for all and a chance to practice large and small muscle development. This program will meet in the large meeting room from 10 to 11 a.m. and is for children ages 9 - 23 months accompanied by an adult.

D&D Ages (In person and Online) 10-15

New and experienced players are invited to join us in person at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 16th for this introduction to D&D 5th edition game play. Take on the role of a fantasy hero in this Dungeons & Dragons game. We will meet for an hour and a half to play this campaign. Please note: There is no wait list for this program, but we will be running more campaigns in the coming months.

Registration is required for this program. Register through our online calendar. This program is for ages 10-15.

This program will be IN PERSON in the Main Library Children's Room. Character sheets will be provided.

Preschool Discovery @ Adams Shore Ages 3-5

Drop by the Adams Shore Library with your preschooler, ages 3-5, any time between 3 and 4 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 17th to do some fun simple science together. Activities, experiments and instructions will be provided for science you can do with your child.

Come in and do some of our favorite science activities from the past year of Preschool Discovery! Did you have fun making things sink and float? Did you miss out on making constellations? Did you want to try building a new marble run? Try out all these and more!

Music & Movement

Join Miss Rubi on Thursday, Aug. 18th at 10:30 a.m. for Music and Movement.

Music and Movement has become so popular we will be doing something new. Starting this summer our programs will be split into 2 half hour sessions. The first half hour (10:30 to 11 a.m.) will be especially for our youngest fans, ages 0-2 years. This session will feature baby bounces, tickles, wiggles, finger plays and nursery rhymes with parent participation.

Beginning at 11 a.m. this session will present a program more suitable for ages 3 and older full of large scale movements, rhythm clapping, finger plays and nursery rhymes including early literacy and music activities. Parent participation highly encouraged.

So put on your favorite dancing shoes and join us for this lively mix of music and movement. Please bring a stuffie along with you to join the fun.

These programs are especially good for children ages 0-6, but anyone who needs a dance break will have a lot of fun.

In case of inclement weather, we will move indoors.

Camp In Ages 3+

On Friday, Aug. 19th at 10 a.m. set up your tents and/or sleeping bags inside the main library children's room for a "Camp-In"! We'll read stories, sing songs and make a craft all about camping in the great outdoors.

Preschool Discovery @ North Quincy ages 3-5

Drop by the North Quincy Branch Library with your preschooler, ages 3-5, any time between 10 and 11 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 20th to do some fun simple science together. Activities, experiments and instructions will be provided for science you can do with your child.

Come in and do some of our favorite science activities from the past year of Preschool Discovery! Did you have fun making things sink and float? Did you miss out on making constellations? Did you want to try building a new marble run? Try out all these and more!

PJ Storytime @ North Quincy Ages 1-5

Join us at the North Quincy Branch on Tuesday, Aug. 23rd at 6:30 p.m. for an evening pajama storytime for the whole family! We'll sing songs, read books, recite rhymes and more all about sea creatures.

Children ages 1-5, accompanied by an adult, will particularly enjoy this storytime.

Camp 'n Draw 'n Tell (Ages 3+)

Join us on the Main Library Lawn on Thursday, Aug. 25th at 10 a.m. with your sleeping bag and/or tent (if you want to) for some songs, rhymes and stories all about the great outdoors. We'll provide instruction, paper and drawing supplies so we can draw together.

This program is for ages 3 and older accompanied by an adult. In case of inclement weather, we will move inside the library.

Preschool Discovery @ Main Library Ages 3-5

Drop by the Main Library Children's Room with your preschooler, ages 3-5, any time between 10 and 11 a.m. on Friday, Aug. 26th to do some fun simple science together. Activities, experiments and instructions will be provided for science you can do with your child.

Come in and do some of our favorite science activities from the past year of Preschool Discovery! Did you have fun making things sink and float? Did you miss out on making constellations? Did you want to try building a new marble run? Try out all these and more!

O'Donnell Promotes Registry Of Deeds Online Research

Register of Deeds William P. O'Donnell reminds Norfolk County residents that there is no need to spend time and money driving to the Registry to view land records since they are available online via the Registry's internet-based document research system at www.norfolkdeeds.org.

"Providing secure, accurate and accessible land record information, coupled with our on-site customer service center, is central to our work here at the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds," O'Donnell said.

Elaborating on the Registry's research capabilities, O'Donnell noted:

"Users are able to research land record information by multiple options, including the name of the property owner and property address. Members of the public can access our internet-based document research system for many endeavors such as determining property ownership, researching land titles, reviewing land plans (only plans which are recorded at the Registry) and finally to confirm that documents affecting a person's property, such as mortgage discharges, have been recorded."

As a result of past Registry of Deeds modernization initiatives there is a massive amount of documents for viewing. The website www.norfolkdeeds.org allows users to look up and view over 13 million scanned images with some 41 million pages of land documents dating back to the Registry's beginnings in 1793. The Registry Customer Service Center personnel work to help anyone in need of internet research help find what they are looking for.

"A few years back, the Registry of Deeds completed a project which transcribed all our handwritten land documents that were recorded from 1793 to 1900," O'Donnell said. "Prior to this effort, these hand-written documents were in many cases difficult to near impossible to read. With the transcription project completed, over 450,000 hand written documents were transcribed. Both the handwritten and the transcribed text can be viewed from the comfort of your home or business via our website www.norfolkdeeds.org."

O'Donnell noted that while the transcribers made a best effort to translate these hard to read documents, their accuracy is not guaranteed.

"These transcribed documents are not legal documents in and of itself, and are not considered binding on the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds or its employees," O'Donnell said. "It is considered merely a convenient reference for Registry users. For documentation purposes, users should refer to the scanned image of the original document instead of the transcribed image."

The Registry's website also provides information on how to obtain certified copies of land documents. The Registry's certified copy charges are $1 per page plus an additional $1 per document for postage.

"Our core mission here at the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds includes providing our users with first-class customer service each and every day," O'Donnell said. "Norfolk County residents and businesses deserve a Registry of Deeds that provides them with access to land record information in an easily accessible and consumer friendly manner. The Registry website www.norfolkdeeds.org does that by bringing the Registry records into your homes and businesses."

All Registry users should be aware that as of July 1, 2021 the Norfolk County Commissioners Peter Collins and Joseph Shea voted to eliminate the on-site direct report to the Register of Deeds Information Technology staff that has been so key to modernization initiatives like on line research, O'Donnell said.

"If as a user of Registry services you have an IT issue let the Registry of Deeds know as soon as possible at 1-781-461-6116 in order to insure the quality delivery of Registry services that the Norfolk Registry of Deeds is known for can hopefully be continued," O'Donnell said. An email notification can be to registerodonnell@norfolkdeeds.org.

To learn more about these and other Registry of Deeds events and initiatives like us at facebook.com/NorfolkDeeds or follow us on twitter.com/NorfolkDeeds and instagram.com/NorfolkDeeds.

The Norfolk County Registry of Deeds is located at 649 High St. in Dedham. The Registry is a resource for homeowners, title examiners, mortgage lenders, municipalities and others with a need for secure, accurate, accessible land record information. All land record research information can be found on the Registry's website www.norfolkdeeds.org.

Residents in need of assistance can call the Registry of Deeds Customer Service Center at (781) 461-6101, or email registerodonnell@norfolkdeeds.org.

Baker Signs $52.7 Billion Fiscal Year 2023 Budget

The FY23 budget makes record investments in the Massachusetts education system across all levels, from childcare to higher education. It continues to fully fund the implementation of the Student Opportunity Act with a $5.998 billion annual Chapter 70 investment, along with a $67.7 million increase over FY22 for special education circuit breaker reimbursement for cities and towns and a $89.2 million increase in charter school reimbursement funding. The Governor also signed a new one-time investment of $110 million that will support a pilot free school meal program for students in K-12 schools.

In addition to the $175 million trust fund transfer to support high-quality early education and care, the FY23 budget provides a total of $1.184 billion for the Department of Early Education and Care (EEC). Notably, this includes $250 million for grants to help stabilize early education and childcare providers through the pandemic recovery period, $60 million for childcare provider rate increases and funding to support the full implementation of a more equitable parent fee scale that will result in virtually all subsidized families paying a fee that is 7% of their income or less in FY23.

The FY23 budget also provides $1.61 billion for college affordability, degree completion, and workforce readiness. This funding supports more than $190 million in support for financial aid, which includes an expansion of the MASSGrant Plus program that will enable all low-income, in-state undergraduate students to attend public higher education without incurring debt for mandatory tuition and mandatory fees. The budget also includes over $30 million to scale up college and career pathway programs for high school students with a focus on equity and recruitment of high-need student populations.

The budget furthers supports job readiness and efforts to connect students and workers to high-demand career pathways with increased funding for programs within the Executive Office for Labor and Workforce Development (EOLWD). It includes $28.5 million for the YouthWorks Summer Jobs program, $23.9 million in total funding for the Career Technical Initiative, $17 million for the Workforce Competitiveness Trust Fund, and $15 million for MassHire one-stop career centers.

The budget supports the Baker-Polito Administration's focus on promoting equitable growth and opportunity for communities and businesses across the Commonwealth. The budget provides $32.2 million for the Small Business Technical Assistance Grant Program, which supports diverse entrepreneurs and small businesses, along with $20 million for the Community Empowerment and Reinvestment Grant program, $17.2 million for local economic development projects, and $10.7 million to support Massachusetts tourism and hospitality.

The FY23 budget builds on the Administration's efforts to promote equality and opportunity for communities of color with more than $50 million across the budget supporting targeted programs and initiatives aligned with the recommendations of the Governor's Black Advisory Commission (BAC) and Latino Advisory Commission (LAC). The budget also fully funds the Supplier Diversity Office (SDO), which promotes diversity, equity, and inclusion in state contracting and ensures accountability and compliance with diversity goals.

The FY23 budget also increases the Unrestricted General Government Aid (UGGA) investment by $63.1 million above FY22, for a total of $1.231 billion. A further $20.7 million in funding is provided for Community Compact-related programs including best practices and regionalization and efficiency grants.

The FY23 budget makes investments to create long-lasting improvements in housing stability and access to homeownership. Building on the Eviction Diversion Initiative (EDI), the budget implements major reforms and significantly increases funding for rental assistance, re-housing benefits and housing vouchers. Along with eligibility expansions that will multiply the number of households served and increase benefits, the budget invests a historic $150 million in Residential Assistance for Families in Transition (RAFT), an increase of $128 million (582%) above FY22, and it provides $59.4 million for HomeBASE, a 129% increase vs. FY22. It also supports $110 million for homeless individual shelters, a 90% increase above FY22, and $154.3 million for Massachusetts Rental Voucher Program (MRVP), which will support enhanced benefits and reforms that will give families more housing choice and flexibility.

The budget sustains support for core health care programs and makes investments to expand services for the most vulnerable, while improving access to health care for all residents. Within the $19.480 billion gross / $7.301 billion net MassHealth budget, $115 million will fund nursing facility staffing rate increases and supplemental payments. The MassHealth budget also incorporates a gross increase of $73.2 million to expand the Medicare Savings Program, which will reduce out-of-pocket health care spending and prescription drug costs for approximately 65,000 low-income seniors and disabled individuals.

The MassHealth budget includes $115 million to support the expansion of outpatient and urgent behavioral health services; further FY23 investments in behavioral health care include $20 million for a clinical behavioral health worker loan forgiveness program and a $20 million for a trust dedicated to supporting the expansion of access to and utilization of behavioral health services.

The COVID-19 pandemic exacerbated substance addiction issues across Massachusetts, and the FY23 budget continues to ramp up funding to combat this public health crisis. The budget includes $597.2 million in total funding for a wide range of harm reduction, treatment, and recovery programs that support individuals struggling with substance addiction and programs that work to prevent substance addiction through education, prescription monitoring, and more.

The budget also continues efforts to ensure survivors of sexual assault and domestic violence have access to necessary services and supports, a priority of the Baker-Polito Administration. $132 million in total FY23 funding is allocated for services to prevent and treat sexual assault and domestic violence, a 104% increase in funding since FY15.

Outside Sections and Earmarks

As part of the budget-signing, Gov. Baker vetoed $475,000 in gross spending, signed 153 outside sections, and returned 41 to the Legislature with proposed amendments.

Notable outside sections returned with amendment include:

- Adding the most important provisions from the Administration's dangerousness bill into the section that would provide free phone calls to inmates.
- Amending an outside section relating to the Children and Family Legal Representation Trust Fund to require that money in the fund may only be spent on expanded guardian ad litem appointments in care and protection cases

- Requiring the Health Connector to study implementation steps and costs of a Connector Care pilot program

10 Students Graduate Quincy YouthBuild Program

Ten students recently graduated from the Quincy YouthBuild Program, operated by Training Resources of America, Inc. (TRA). The COVID-19 friendly ceremony took place at the TRA's Quincy's office, at 1515 Hancock St. #205, Quincy.

The graduates, ages 16 to 24, included: Caleb Araujo of Weymouth (18), Devon Bailey of Weymouth (19), Joshua Bonasoro of Weymouth (18), Nathan Campbell of Hingham (19), Bryant Cureton of Holbrook (16), Joel Deery of Quincy (19), Matthew Ford of Holbrook (17), Jahkeen Gooding of Holbrook (16), Gabrielle Rice of Boston (24), and John Shaw of Quincy (19).

Quincy YouthBuild provides comprehensive training to young people ages 16 to 24 that are not in school, have not received a high school diploma or High School Equivalency, or are basic skills deficient, and demonstrate a willingness to work hard for personal and community change.

Students received instruction in High School Equivalency Test (HiSET) or Penn Foster preparation, self-esteem, life, work readiness, and leadership skills, including community service opportunities.

In addition to working towards attaining their High School Equivalency credentials, students earned OSHA Safety, and Home Builder's Institute Pre-Apprenticeship Construction Training (HBIPACT - Carpentry Skills) certificates. This class has worked on construction projects with NeighborWorks Housing Solutions, St. Marks Church, Father Bills & MainSpring, and at the USS Salem.

TRA President and CEO Kim Radcliffe, Program Manager Mike McGee and their instructors joined family, friends, and staff in celebrating the young people's many accomplishments.

"The YouthBuild program put me on a path I was struggling to get on," said graduate Caleb Araujo who delivered the Student Address to his classmates. "They supported me through the process of getting and accomplishing my goal of getting a high school equivalency diploma. I am so glad I was able to participate in this program. The next decisions in your lives are going to be the most important. Wish you all the best!"

Temple Beth Shalom Of Nantasket

Temple Beth Shalom of Nantasket invites the public to join in celebrating the addition of a new rabbi to its clergy.

Rabbi Joshua Grossman will be joining his father, Rabbi David Grossman, in the pulpit of the shul. Rabbi Joshua has served as a cantor and an educator in South Shore shuls for over 25 years. He is well known to the Hull Jewish Community, having served as a cantor for many years at our summer congregation, Temple Israel of Nantasket.

Temple Beth Shalom is holding an installation ceremony for Rabbi Joshua Grossman on Sunday, Aug. 14 at 6 p.m.. The ceremony will be held at the Temple Israel Sanctuary on 9 Haddassah Way, Hull. Everyone is welcome.

Immediately following services, there will be a ticketed outdoor catered kosher barbecue at Temple Beth Shalom, 600 Nantasket Ave., Hull. If you wish to attend the barbecue, call the temple office at 781-925-0091 for details about the tickets. Parking is the same for both venues.

Summer Shabbat morning services are held under the tent at Temple Israel of Nantasket at 9:30 a.m. every Saturday in the summer.

Kabbalat Shabbat Services will be held Friday, Aug. 12 and Friday, Aug. 26 at 7 p.m. at the Temple Israel Sanctuary.

For more information, contact the office at 781-925-0091 or email templebethhull@gmail.com.

For details on High Holiday Services, visit the website www.templebethhull.org or call the office at 781-925-0091 or email templebethhull@gmail.com.

Temple Beth Shalom is located at 600 Nantasket Ave., Hull, MA 02045. The email address is templebethhull@gmail.com. The telephone number is 781-925-0091.

Breast Cancer Coalition Athletic Fundraising Events In August

Massachusetts Breast Cancer Coalition (MBCC) is hosting its annual, statewide Against the Tide athletic fundraising events as both virtual and in-person events this summer.

MBCC will hold its in-person Cape Cod Against the Tide event on August 13th at DCR's Nickerson State Park in Brewster, for the 23rd year. This event will feature a 1-mile recreational and competitive swim, a ½-mile recreational swim, 5K and 10K runs, a 3-mile walk, and a 1-mile USMS sanctioned swim.

Additionally, MBCC is offering participants the option to participate remotely in the Against the Tide August virtual event from Aug. 6th - 13th. The virtual event components include 1-mile recreational or competitive swims, a ½-mile recreational swim, 5K and 10K runs, and a 3-mile walk.

Registration for both the virtual and in-person options is $40 for an individual participant, and $100 for a family registration (up to 5 family members). Participants may register as an individual or as part of a team. Participants are encouraged to fundraise beyond the registration fees, as all proceeds support MBCC's unique goal of breast cancer prevention. All participants will receive an event t-shirt. • Get everything in writing. Ask for an estimate in writing before payment is even discussed. Don't let a contractor start working on a project until a written, signed contract outlining start and complete dates, a detailed description of the work to be provided, material costs, payment arrangements, and warranty information is provided.

• Stagger payments. Most contractors will require a percentage of the total price upfront, but it should never be the full price before the work has begun. Instead, agree to stagger payments so that work can be inspected at various stages of the project.

• Use safe payment methods. Paying with a credit card provides some peace of mind since the credit card company will help you if the company is fraudulent. If you use a check, write it to a company, not an individual. Paying cash or using an electronic wallet app is risky since there is no way to stop the payment or get some money back if anything goes wrong.

AAA: Drivers Change Habits To Counter High Gas Prices

New survey data from AAA finds that drivers are making significant changes to cope with record pump prices. Almost two-thirds (64%) of U.S. adults have changed their driving habits or lifestyle since March, with 23% making "major changes." Drivers' top three changes to offset high gas prices are driving less, combining errands, and reducing shopping or dining out.

More changes are shown in the table at right.

In March 2022, AAA released gas survey data examining the pump prices Americans would view as too expensive. At that time, over half (59%) said they would change their driving habits or lifestyle if the cost of gas rose to $4 per gallon. If gas were to reach $5.00, which it did in June, three-quarters said they would

In Response to Gas Price Increases, Consumers Are Most Likely to Drive Less, Combine Errands, and Reduce Shopping or Dining Out
The 64% of Americans Who Reported Making Changes Adapted Their Driving or Lifestyle in the Following Ways (Multiple responses possible)	Have Made Changes Already
Drive less	88%
Combine errands	74%
Reduce shopping or dining out	66%
Delay major purchases	30%
Postpone vacations this year	29%
Put aside less money for savings	24%
Carpool	18%
Drive a more fuel-efficient vehicle	13%
Use public transportation more regularly	5%
Switch to an electric vehicle	2%
Something else	5%

need to adjust their lifestyle to offset the spike at the pump. At that time, among Americans who said they would make changes in response to higher gas prices, a majority (80%) said they would opt to drive less. The new AAA survey reaffirms these driving habit changes.

While many Americans are adapting their daily habits to make up for higher gas prices, it also affects their future travel plans. Many Americans have postponed taking a vacation this year. With gas prices remaining volatile for the foreseeable future, consumers will likely be paying higher prices than in previous years. AAA offers the following advice to help drivers ease some of the pain they're feeling at the pump:

- Keep your vehicle in top shape with routine inspections and in between, make sure your tires are properly inflated. Underinflated tires are a drag on fuel economy.

- Map your route before you go to minimize unnecessary turnarounds and backtracking. Avoid peak traffic times and, if possible, go to "one-stop shops" where you can do multiple tasks (banking, shopping, etc.).

- Fuel economy peaks at around 50 mph on most cars, then drops off as speeds increase. Reducing highway speeds by 5 to 10 mph can improve fuel economy by as much as 14%.

- Only use premium gas in vehicles that recommend or require it. Paying for premium gas for a car that takes regular is a waste of money and is of no benefit to the vehicle.

- To find the best gas price in your area, use the AAA Mobile App - Android or iPhone.

- If traveling this summer, know that flights, car rentals, accommodations, tours, cruises, and other activities are in high demand, and availability may be limited. Finding last-minute deals may be challenging, so plan ahead and look for discounts and rewards, usually available through a membership like AAA. This is also another time when travel agents are a great resource since they may know of a deal that may not be readily available to the public.

21st Annual Walk Of Hope To Benefit ALS - Lou Gehrig's Disease Set For Sept. 10th

The 21st annual Walk of Hope for ALS, a 3.5-mile walk around Lake Quannapowitt in Wakefield to benefit The Angel Fund for ALS Research, will be held on Saturday, Sept. 10th.

The walk begins with registration at 9 a.m., followed by the start of the walk at 11 a.m. The release of doves for those living with ALS and those who have lost their courageous to the disease will be held prior to the start of the walk.

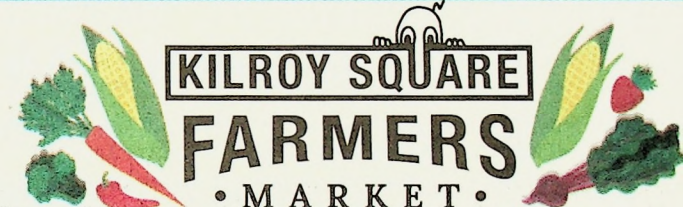

The Angel Fund for ALS Research is a nonprofit organization dedicated to supporting ALS research at UMass Chan Medical School in Worcester. ALS, more commonly known as Lou Gehrig's Disease, is a progressive, always fatal neuromuscular disease which leads to muscle weakness and as it progresses, results in total paralysis and the inability to speak and swallow while the mind

Hot Weather Garden Woes

By MELINDA MYERS

Poor flowering and misshapen or a lack of fruit on tomatoes, peppers and squash may be due to the weather, not your gardening skills. Temperature extremes can interfere with flowering and fruit set on these and other vegetables in your garden.

We watch for and can't wait to taste that first red ripe tomato. It is certainly frustrating when we see flowers drop or the plant fails to form fruit. Tomatoes thrive in warm sunny conditions; but temperature extremes can prevent fruiting, cause misshapen fruit, or reduce the size of the harvest.

When daytime temperatures rise above 90°F and night temperatures remain above 70°F blossom drop and poor fruit development may occur. Combine this with low humidity and the pollen is not viable. In hot and humid conditions, the pollen is too sticky and doesn't move from the male to the female part of the flower. Without pollination the flowers won't be fertilized, and fruit will not develop.

Cool weather can result in poor fruiting. Night temperatures below the optimum of 59° to 68°F will reduce the amount and viability of pollen that the plant produces. Less viable pollen means fewer fruit will form. Cooler temperatures below 55°F can result in misshapen fruit and catfacing. Fortunately, the malformed fruit is still tasty and safe to eat.

Temperature extremes also impact pepper productivity. When temperatures climb to 95°F or higher the pollen is sterile and flowers may drop. Small fruit may also fall from the plant during such hot spells. Pepper plants also experience poor fruit set when night temperatures drop below 60°F or rise above 75°F.

Tomatoes and peppers aren't the only vegetables impacted by temperature extremes. Eggplants, a close relative to tomatoes and peppers, do not set fruit until night temperatures are above 55°F. Beans stop flowering or the flowers die when temperatures rise above 85°F.

Flowering in squash and cucumber plants is also influenced by temperature and other environmental factors. These plants produce separate male and female flowers. The male flowers usually appear first and it is not until both the male and female flowers are present that pollination, fertilization and fruit production can occur.

Research found cool temperatures, bright sunlight, and shorter days encourage female flower production while male flowers are more prolific during warmer temperatures, less sunlight and close spacing. Flowering on squash and cucumbers is also impacted by nitrogen fertilization. Too much can prevent female flower formation while insufficient amounts can reduce the number of male flowers.

The simplest solution is to wait for optimum temperatures and the proper humidity levels to return. Once this happens, the plants will begin producing fruit.

MISSHAPEN FRUIT and some other issues can be the result of temperatures dropping below 55°F.

If poor productivity related to the weather is a yearly problem, consider planting more heat tolerant varieties, adjust planting times and look for more suitable growing locations.

When the harvest is delayed, extend the season with the help of row covers. These fabrics allow sunlight, air, and water through while trapping heat around the plants. Just loosely cover plants and anchor the edges with stones, boards, or landscape staples when frost is in the forecast. You can leave the fabric in place for the remainder of the year. Just lift it to harvest and secure the fabric when done.

If this summer's weather leaves you disappointed with the harvest, remember there is always next year.

Tips For Buying An Outdoor Barbecue Grill

Summertime means grilling season is in full swing. But before you can host that backyard BBQ, you need a grill. These tips will help you pick the right kind of grill at a price that fits your budget.

Tips for buying a grill

• Start by choosing a fuel type. Grills come in a range of different budgets, so start by narrowing your search according to fuel type. The most common options include:

o Gas grills are popular because of their convenience. These grills light with the touch of a button and the turn of a few dials. If you want a gas grill, you'll also need to decide between natural gas and propane. Natural grills plug into your existing natural gas line, which means you'll never run out of fuel.

Propane grills use a cylinder that will need to be refilled. However, if you don't already have a natural gas line at your home, propane will be significantly cheaper.

o Basic charcoal grills or specialized ceramic grills give you greater control over cooking temperature. The bigger you build a fire, the higher the temperature. Charcoal grills offer more of a classic grilled flavor than gas grills, but they do have a steeper learning curve.

o Wood pellets. Pellet grills are designed to make food taste like it was cooked over a wood fire. They often have digital thermostats that allow you to be very precise with the cooking temperature.

• Set a budget. Grill prices range from hundreds to thousands - to even tens of thousands of dollars. Be sure to set your budget and know how much you can spend before you start shopping. This will help you further narrow your options.

• Choose the right size. If you are cooking for a family of four, a two-burner gas grill or most small to medium charcoal grills will work fine. Many grills are measured in square inches. Grills around 400-500 square inches are a good choice for most families. If you're grilling for a crowd, you may need something larger.

• If you are new to grilling, start simple. A basic starter grill that only costs a couple of hundred dollars will allow you to improve your grilling skills and decide if you want to invest in something fancier.

• Check for solid construction. The more solid the grill, the more grilling seasons it will last. Give assembled grills a jostle to see if they feel shaky or unstable. Grills with welded joints are usually sturdier and more stable than carts assembled with nuts and bolts. Check the wheels as well, to see if the grill is easy to maneuver or if it could present a tipping hazard when moved around.

• Get to know the grill materials. Different grill materials require different methods of care and cleaning. For example, cast iron grids require curing to prevent rust but are very durable. Stainless steel grids are resistant to rust, but they may allow food to stick and are more difficult to clean. Porcelain-coated steel grids are suitable for non-stick cooking. However, the glaze can chip, and the steel can rust if the grids aren't properly maintained.

• Read the warranty. Every grill warranty is different, so read the fine print to know what is covered. Some grill manufacturers only offer warranties on their burners, which generally last for two to 10 years. You can expect burners with a 10-year warranty to last longer than a grill that offers no burner warranty.

Equity Director Helping To Hire More Diverse School Staff

cussed other recent personnel changes within the district, including a slate of new principals and ongoing efforts to hire five dozen teachers before the start of the next school year.

Connolly was hired as the Quincy Public Schools director of equity, diversity and inclusion effective July 1. She previously worked for the Boston Public Schools, most recently as the director of recruitment, cultivation and diversity programs.

"She started on July 1 and she's busy now doing all kinds of EDI initiatives," Mulvey said.

In her new role, Connolly will be working with the district's human resources department to increase diversity among staff across the board.

"She is in charge of assisting the human resources department with identifying diverse and highly qualified candidates for every level – professional positions and non-professional positions," Mulvey said.

"She'll be working with our HR department to diversify staff. It is challenging. We're partners in the Massachusetts Partnership for Diversity in Education and they just released numbers, the percentage of highly qualified minority candidates within Massachusetts is around 8 percent.

"So, all the districts within Massachusetts are competing for that 8 percent, including Boston who really ends up absorbing a large portion of that 8 percent. It is a challenge but we're working at it, and we are hiring more diverse candidates this year as well for numerous positions."

The goal is to make the staff within the school system more reflective of its students.

"It's our goal to move toward that, to make it more reflective, so the staff is more reflective of the student body," Mulvey said. "We'll move towards that. It's certainly not going to happen overnight. It will take some time to make that happen, but we're committed to making that happen."

To help hire a more diverse group of educators, Mulvey said state officials have recommended using a pipeline approach in which candidates can be hired as paraprofessionals while working towards becoming a licensed teacher. Part of Connolly's role will be to oversee that program for the Quincy Public Schools.

"The state department of education is working to try and encourage all districts to do a pipeline approach to get those numbers up. By that I mean hiring like paraprofessionals who might not be professionally licensed but working with those paraprofessionals to get into education programs and work towards their professional license and give incentives for that," Mulvey said.

"The state is providing grants for that to help defer the cost of tuition and licensure fees and costs and all that to try and get a more diverse pool of candidates throughout the state, but they are basically asking individual districts to do this pipeline approach, which we're doing, and the EDI director is certainly going to be responsible for carrying that out."

"We're reaching out to all the local colleges and universities," Mulvey added, "to try and get qualified candidates to apply within the district or to get them to apply for another position within the district, most likely a para position, and then we would work with them to advance them into professional licensure."

Connolly has other responsibilities as well, such as helping to rewrite the student handbook, meeting with parents' groups to see what suggestions they may have, and helping to implement culturally responsive teaching, which means making the curriculum more relatable to students.

"She's going to be also in charge of reworking the student handbook, which hasn't been updated in years. School Committee is going to be also involved in that as well as parents and students. As we rework the student handbook, she'll be spearheading that," Mulvey said.

"She'll be also working with our PTO groups, our QPAC groups, our ELPAC, and identifying areas of concerns and priorities with those parents and obviously trying to implement those suggestions within the district. One of those suggestions that I know the ELPAC parents would like to see is greater translation services. We made some big strides last year in that by hiring a translation service as well as a telephone service, but we'll continue with that and that will be part of her job."

"Then of course professional development with staff with regard to culturally responsive teaching. That's not critical race theory. There are two CRTs – there is critical race theory, which is the hot button topic, and then there is culturally responsive teaching, which is simply making the curriculum more relative to the students who are in front of you. She'll be working with the curriculum director on that as well as doing PD for staff and identifying curriculum we can bring in to the Quincy Public Schools that will make it more relative to our students and families."

Connolly is not the only new director inside the Codding Building appointed this summer. Lawrence Taglieri, formerly the principal at Quincy High School, is now the district's director of academic programs.

"He'll be focusing in on art, instrumental music and choral, physical and health education, technology and engineering, library. He is also going to be working with and supervising our athletic directors as well, which is going to be a huge help for us. Our media programs for grades K to 12 as well," Mulvey said in the interview.

One of Taglieri's new responsibilities is working with principals to set the schedule for specialists, like art, music and physical education teachers, Mulvey explained.

"This summer he has been meeting with all the principals to talk about their specialist schedulers," Mulvey said. "He's going to be working with them to really tighten down their schedules."

"The specialists...it probably seems like it has

that kind of straight forward curriculum, but it has so many impacts on the school district because all of those classes actually provide the preparation time for the teachers and we have to meet our contractual obligations for prep time," the superintendent continued.

"So, it really is a scheduling challenge to schedule all of the specialists, number one, to make sure the kids are getting their curriculum, but number two, to make sure we're meeting all of our contractual obligations for preparation time for our teachers. It is a complicated schedule that has to be followed at each school, and we almost have to redo it each year because it changes every year."

Having Taglieri work on those schedules frees up the curriculum team to do other work, Mulvey noted.

"Larry has always been and continues to be excellent at scheduling, so that expertise, which he had through scheduling the high school, which is a real monster in itself, he'll be using those skills to help schedule all of the specialists and all of the academic programs," he said. "That is a huge burden off of curriculum team, which historically kind of bogged them down. Now they're free to focus on curriculum development and new hires for September, which is great."

Replacing Taglieri as the principal at Quincy High School is Keith Ford, who had spent the last school year as the principal at North Quincy High School and formerly was the assistant principal at Needham High School for five years. Daniel Gilbert, the principal at Broad Meadows for nine years, is the new principal at North.

Two middle schools have new principals as well. Michael Marani, previously the principal at Snug Harbor, is the new principal at Broad Meadows. Courtney Mitchell, previously the principal at Merrymount, is the new principal at South-West Middle School.

At the elementary school level, Janet Loftus and Marisa Forrester were hired as the principals at Lincoln-Hancock and Beechwood Knoll, respectively. Susan Shea Connor and Scott Perfetto have been named the acting principals at Merrymount and Snug Harbor, respectively.

In the interview, Mulvey said there are also open assistant principal positions at the Parker and Beechwood Knoll elementary schools, which will be posted in the fall once teachers, who typically are promoted to those jobs, return to the classroom. Acting assistant principals will be named in the interim.

The superintendent said the opening at Quincy High School helped lead to additional openings throughout the district.

"When we had the opportunity to have Quincy High open and bring Principal Taglieri up to Coddington to take academic programs, it basically caused a domino effect of opportunity," he said.

"In the last round we hired mostly outside candidates – if not all outside candidates for the principals. This time around, we definitely had interest vocalized by our principals – that they were interested in advancement and so we took a look at that and we gave them that opportunity. So, we had internal advancement this time, which I think will be great for our morale."

Mulvey said that Derek Lakey, who had been hired as the principal of South-West Middle School last summer, resigned to pursue the open principal position at Silver Lake Regional Middle School. In addition, Natacha Dieudonné, who was hired as the principal at Lincoln-Hancock last summer, resigned in February for personal and family reasons. Both Lakey and Dieudonné came to Quincy from other communities.

The district will also welcome about 60 new teachers at the start of the upcoming school year. Mulvey said those hirings are ongoing.

"We have to hire around 60 teachers, which is typical. That's due to LOAs, including maternity leaves. That's due to resignations, retirements and non-renewals as well. So, we have about 60 and we're nearly complete with that," he said.

The district has had some difficulty finding new Spanish teachers this summer, he said, but he does expect those positions to be filled.

"It ebbs and flows, like one year science is difficult for us to fill. This year it's foreign language, in particular Spanish, which is unusual for us, because usually that's the most common foreign language teacher available. We are in the process of doing final interviews for that position and we have two solid candidates and hopefully they will accept," Mulvey said.

"They are all highly sought after positions from other districts as well. It's almost like a competition between districts, who captures these candidates, but foreign language is one of the last ones to hire at the moment."

Other positions the school system is looking to hire are paraprofessionals – Mulvey said the district is "always looking for paras" – as well as bus drivers. The superintendent said a full complement of bus drivers for the district, including full timers and substitutes, is 45 to 50. The district has 40 bus drivers at the moment, including five who may retire before the fall.

"That is a real challenge for us because if we don't have enough drivers, we have to outsource to vendors in September. We actually have a meeting tomorrow on the issue, because we are hearing we may have five bus driver retirements before the end of summer, which is going to put us in a tough spot," Mulvey said.

He also noted that the district is in contract negotiations with the Teamsters union, which represents the school system's bus drivers.

Beverly Somerville To Chair NeighborWorks Housing Solutions' Board Of Directors

BEVERLY SOMERVILLE

NeighborWorks Housing Solutions, the leading housing service provider in southern Massachusetts, announces that Beverly Somerville, vice president and Community Reinvestment Act (CRA) officer of Dedham Savings, has been elected as the new chairperson of the board of directors.

The election took place at the June board meeting and the appointment was made official as of July 1.

In this capacity, Somerville will lead the organization as NHS continues a path of significant growth with sound, ethical, dedicated governance and solid financial management policies. The NeighborWorks Housing Solutions Board is made up of individuals who live or work within southern Massachusetts communities and have both a passion for the NHS mission and the experience needed to effectively guide its work.

"I am delighted to be part of this incredible organization," said Beverly Somerville, NHS board chair. "Over the past few years, I have witnessed the transformative impact that NHS has on the people they serve. They not only invest in communities, but they also invest in their staff. They have an incredible group of talented people working together to advance the mission. I am honored to be taking on this role and helping to shape the future of NHS."

Somerville has been a member of the NHS board since 2013, when a colleague from Dedham Savings stepped down, and a seat became available. Since joining the board, the agency has experienced tremendous growth, which in part, was due to the contributions and leadership demonstrated by the board including Somerville.

"It is a pleasure to announce Beverly as chair of our board of directors," said Robert Corley, CEO of NeighborWorks Housing Solutions. "We have come to rely not only on her knowledge of the banking industry and compliance regulations, but also on her strong advocacy and passion to advance our mission. Beverly's dedication to the people and families we serve is undeniable; we look forward to her leadership."

2-Alarm Fire Tears Through Bigelow St. Rooming House

A two-story rooming house on Bigelow Street is likely a total loss after a two-alarm fire tore through the wooden structure early Sunday morning.

Quincy fire officials and city building inspectors were on scene Monday morning one day after the two-alarm fire ripped through the women's rooming house at 98 Bigelow St. displacing 14 residents. Ten were home when the fire began.

Fire Chief Joseph Jackson said the initial call came in at 3:02 a.m. Sunday for a trash fire at the rear of the building and quickly went to a second alarm.

"Fire companies were on scene in less than six minutes, the initial call was for a trash fire at the rear of the building," Jackson told The Sun. "Engine 1 arrived to find heavy fire involving the rear of the building and several people trapped at second story windows. Rescues were made via ground ladders by the first arriving crews. Three people were removed."

Jackson said three residents of the house were transported via ambulance for injuries: one for back pain from jumping from the residence; a second for rapid heart rate and the third for smoke inhalation.

The chief said no firefighters were injured battling the blaze. He credited firefighters for their hard work at the scene, especially since there was collapse potential with the chimney and a couple of the dormers on the home.

"It was a very compartmentalized home with lots of void spaces and tough to fight from the exterior," Jackson said. "Once the heavy fire was knocked down, crews were sent in to open up voids to complete extinguishment. Power lines in front of the home limited Ladder truck placement, but the guys did a great job with what they were presented with."

The Quincy Fire Prevention office is working in conjunction with the State Fire Marshal's office to determine the cause.

"The building will likely be a total loss," Jackson said.

The Red Cross responded to help displaced tenants find new shelter.

A TWO-ALARM FIRE tore through 98 Bigelow St. early Sunday morning. This photo shows the charred remains of the rear of the structure. An initial inspection indicates the fire started outside at the rear of the dwelling and spread quickly to the roof. Three residents were injured and transported from the scene by ambulance for treatment.

According to the City of Quincy's property data base, the structure was built in 1915 and is assessed for $697,300 or $930,400 including land.

Quincy: A Health Microcosm

By SANDY EATON

For those who did not already realize what a dysfunctional health care system we have, the COVID pandemic has exposed just how vulnerable the health system is.

Since some of the more blatant examples of poor health may not be immediately obvious in Quincy, many are not aware of just how dysfunctional the healthcare system is. A number of factors and health characteristics suggest that Quincy is a veritable microcosm of the larger health system.

Access to health care services is a vital component for adequate health care services, yet 4% of Quincy residents do not have health insurance.

This lack of access manifests other negative health characteristics.

Within Quincy one of these characteristics include having an infant death rate of 5%. Public health practitioners consider the infant death rate as a primary indication of health because it can represent the health of the mother and thus the health of the family. It can represent access to prenatal care, which can also be a surrogate for access to health care in general.

Thus, Quincy illustrates some of the inequities in the healthcare system. But, while more people become aware of its defects and inequities, our legislators continue to cobble together incremental changes that just leave us with the larger patchwork quilt of an inappropriate and inefficient system.

But there is one beacon on the horizon that can address this. Single Payer health care, also known as Medicare for All, is the way to make healthcare affordable and equitable for everyone.

Even though more than 70% of US residents support a single payer system, the fact that we do not yet have it indicates it is a political - more than scientific - issue. The United States is the only developed country in the world that does not offer its residents universal health care.

In a single payer system, the dysfunctional attributes of poor access and high costs of the current system will be eliminated. With a single payer healthcare system, many current dysfunctions would be resolved.

"Everybody In, Nobody Out," a popular chant of healthcare advocates, highlights a primary characteristic of the single payer system, which is that everyone has access to health care services. Health care is not based on income, or what the insurance company considers appropriate. It is a medical decision between the care providers and the patient. In addition to everyone being eligible, single payer healthcare is portable, that is, it is not dependent on place of employment, marriage, or residence.

In a single payer reformed system, there are uniform benefits for everyone. Which health services are offered does not depend on how much money a person has or how expensive an insurance plan they have.

Benefits are determined by medical need. The interference of the health insurance company determining services would be eliminated.

Within Medicare for All, prevention and health education are an integral function of any individual health care plan. Health insurers do not pay for prevention because, although it may save money in the long run, it does not always save money in the short term. Since individual policy holders often change insurance companies, an individual health insurer would not reap the benefits of preventive care they had paid for.

Another advantage of a single payer system is that each person selects their own physician. One does not need to be concerned if the provider or specialist is in the plan or not. There are no hidden costs from seeing a physician who is "out of plan," since there is no "out of plan."

Currently, the United States has the most expensive health care system in the world. We pay more than twice the cost of healthcare as other developed countries, costing more than $11,000 for each person in the country. By not needing to pay premiums, copays or deductibles, a single payer system will save money for individuals and the entire health care system. There are a number of different payment plans offered to pay for a new single payer health care system, but in all of them more than 95% of individuals would save money.

Although a single payer system is necessary, it is not sufficient. Once we have health care access for everyone, we can begin to address the structural problems with the system. Good health depends on far more than just healthcare services.

Knowing that 70% of the population supports single payer shows us how much single payer is political. As a political issue, constituents have a responsibility to inform their elected representatives that a single payer system is an idea whose time has come and that we should join the rest of the developed world in having a system that is universal, affordable and equitable.

The Boston area has always been an epicenter for health advocacy and health care reform. It is home to two major health activist organizations. Healthcare Now (www.healthcare-now.org), which is fighting to win a national single-payer healthcare system because access to healthcare is basic to human dignity, and MassCare (www.masscare.org), the Massachusetts organization working to establish a single payer health care system in Massachusetts.

Quincy is home to South Shore Medicare for All, residents of the South Shore working to educate neighbors, coworkers and elected officials of the need to enact a single-payer system of healthcare financing in order to achieve access, affordability, quality and equality. Their Facebook page illustrates just how much they have accomplished. For further information, contact: heather@rodley.com or sandy.eaton@icloud.com.

On Capitol Hill, we have the Medicare for All Act of 2021 (HR.1976) in the US House, sponsored by Representatives Pramila Jayapal and Debbie Dingell (<https://jayapal.house.gov/2021/03/17/medicare-for-all>), with 121 cosponsors, five from Massachusetts.

And the Medicare for All Act was filed in the US Senate this May by Senator Bernie Sanders (S.4204) with seventeen sponsors, including both senators from Massachusetts.

In the current session of the Massachusetts legislature, which is drawing to a close, eighty-two senators and representatives have come forward to cosponsor An Act establishing Medicare for all in Massachusetts.

Sponsored in the Senate by Senator Jamie Eldridge (<https://malegislature.gov/Bills/192/S766>) and in the House by Representatives Denise Garlick and Lindsay Sabadosa (<https://malegislature.gov/Bills/192/H1267>), it will be resubmitted on Beacon Hill in January.

Voters across Massachusetts will have a chance this November to express their support for a single-payer, Medicare-for-All system through a non-binding ballot question. Here on the South Shore, voters in the 12th Suffolk district (parts of Milton and Mattapan), the 3rd Norfolk (parts of Quincy, Weymouth and Holbrook) and the 3rd Plymouth (parts of Hingham, Hull, Cohasset and Scituate) can declare their support. That means twenty-eight precincts spread across or region, from Milton to Scituate.

Quincy is not immune to the inadequacies of our healthcare system. For those of us not satisfied with our current dysfunctional health care system, it is our responsibility to support and work with the advocates, organizations and legislation that will change it.

OBITUARIES

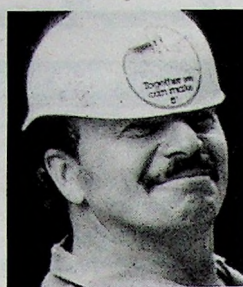

Frank P. Milano, 90

Frank Paul Milano, of Quincy, formerly of Dorchester, passed away on July 25, 2022, surrounded by his loving family. Frank was 90 years old and lived life to the fullest.

Born in Boston on Feb. 23, 1932, he was the son of the late Benny and Nancy (Falcetta) Milano. Frank grew up in Dorchester. He was a devout Catholic and attended St. Ann's Church, in Quincy, where he lived for 64 years with his wife, Anita and their family.

Frank served as a Corporal in the U.S. Army and was stationed in Korea, where he helped build roads and bridges. After being discharged from the Army, he worked as a welder/machinist for American (Domino) Sugar Co. for 25 years before retiring. After that, he worked part-time for Corcoran Management.

Frank was an active member of North Quincy Council of the Knights of Columbus, where he volunteered his time to help establish and work Bingo for many years. There, he met many of his lifetime friends. He thoroughly enjoyed playing golf for the Knights of Columbus at The Furnace Brook Golf Club and attended many golf trips to Naples, Florida with the same group. He especially enjoyed several trips and cruises to Bermuda and the Caribbean with family and friends. Frank was an extremely avid ALL BOSTON sports fan, especially, the New England Patriots. He volunteered his time as a welder to assist in building Schafer Stadium, consequently, getting his season tickets, which were on the 50-yard line. He was one of the first season ticket holders starting in 1960 and followed them when they played at B.U. Field, Harvard University, Fenway Park and all the way to The Dynasty at Gillette Stadium. He saw 11 Super bowls with the Pats in his lifetime and attended two of them. Frank was also a "HOCKEY DAD", when both his boys played for Quincy Youth Hockey and he attended many hockey trips to Canada and New York with them. Again, in 1970, he volunteered his welding expertise to help build Quincy Youth Hockey Arena. Frank was a perfectionist and thought things should be done on schedule. Often times, we let him think we did do things on schedule.

Frank is survived by his wife Anita (Tagliamonte) Milano. Devoted Father to Richard and his wife, Claudine Milano of Braintree, Jim and his wife, Patti Milano of Marshfield. Grandfather to Christopher and his wife, Casey Milano of Quincy, Amanda Milano and her partner, Joey Rackauskis of Quincy, Matthew and Alexa Milano of Braintree and John and Victoria Milano of Marshfield. Great grandfather to Brayden, Evan, Camdyn and his namesake, the newest addition to the family, Gianni Francesco Milano. Also survived by his brother Vinny Milano of Mashpee, and sisters Agnes Lynch of Abington and Lena and her husband, George Cummings of Hingham as well as many nieces and nephews.

Relatives and friends are respectfully invited to visit with the family on Saturday, Aug. 13, 2022 from 10 - 10:30 a.m. in St. Ann's Church, 757 Hancock St., Quincy followed by the Funeral Mass which will be celebrated at 10:30 a.m.

The family would like to thank all the staff at Beth Israel Milton Hospital, especially his nurse Erika, as well as Accent Care at Seasons Hospice for their kind and professional care given to Frank. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to Accent Care, 1 Edgewater Dr., Suite 103, Norwood, MA 02062-4674

Evange A. 'Angelo' Kesaris

Evange A. "Angelo" Kesaris, a longtime resident of Braintree, formerly of Quincy, died peacefully, Sunday, July 31, 2022, in the comfort of his home, surrounded by his loving family.

Evange was born in Epirus, Greece, to the late Antonios G. and Anastasia D. (Phillis) Kesaris. Raised and educated in Greece, Angelo immigrated with his family to the United States in 1956, arriving in Quincy, where he lived for 22 years, before moving to Braintree in 1978.

Angelo had worked in the restaurant industry his entire life, along with his brothers, Vasilios, Spyridon, and George. They were the co-owners and operators of the famous "Clam Box Restaurant," located on Wollaston Beach in Quincy. They opened their business in 1968 and successfully served outstanding seafood for 33 years before retiring in 2001.

Most of all, Angelo was devoted to his family, especially his cherished grandchildren and great-grandsons, supporting all their many activities and accomplishments.

Beloved husband for 62 years of Vivian J. (Cosindas) Kesaris.

Devoted father of Anastasia "Stacey" (Kesaris) Mazeiko and her husband Alfred of Raynham, John Kesaris and his wife Brenda of Pembroke, and Gregory "Greg" Kesaris of Braintree and Nicole Alfieri of Pembroke.

Loving grandfather of Alexandra Burrows and her husband Stephen, Angelo John "AJ" Kesaris, and twins Madison and Katlyn Kesaris. Great-grandfather of Isaac and Nathan Burrows.

Dear brother of Vasilios

EVANGE A. 'ANGELO' KESARIS

"William" Kesaris and his wife Mary of Quincy, twins, Theodore Kesaris and Christos Kesaris both of Quincy. He was predeceased by Spyridon "Peter" Kesaris and his surviving wife Zoi of Quincy, George Kesaris and his surviving wife Ourania of Braintree, and the late Andria A. Saxonis and her late husband Peter.

Angelo is also survived by many nieces, nephews, Godchildren, and their families.

Visiting hours will be held at the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy, on Thursday, Aug. 4, from 4 to 7 p.m. Relatives and friends are invited to attend. Funeral Services will be conducted at Saint Catherine's Greek Orthodox Church, 119 Common St., Braintree, on Friday, Aug. 5, at 10 a.m. Interment to follow at Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

In lieu of flowers, donations in Angelo's memory may be made to Saint Catherine's Greek Orthodox Church, 119 Common St., Braintree, MA 02184 or St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, 501 St. Jude Place, Memphis, TN 38105.

Mary A. Jordan, 95

Mary Agnes Jordan of Quincy passed away peacefully surrounded by her loving family on Monday, July 25, 2022. She was 95.

Mary was born in South Boston to Harriet (Macomber) and George Gallagher and raised in South Boston and Dorchester. She attended Girls' High School in Roxbury and graduated in the class of 1944. She was lucky enough to grow up in the same neighborhood as her beloved Robert. They started dating in their early 20's and were married Oct. 19, 1952, at St. Margaret Church in Dorchester.

Mary loved spending time with her family; her favorite place to be was home with them. In her spare time, she enjoyed crossword puzzles, baking, crocheting, reading murder mysteries and ceramics. On Wednesday nights for many years she enjoyed a night out to play BINGO with friends. A devout Catholic, she said the Rosary daily until recently and attended Sunday Mass when she was able. Mary was quiet and reserved in nature; however, when it came to her family, she was as fierce a protector as they come.

Mary was the beloved wife of 61 years to the late Robert P. Jordan. Devoted mother of Patricia Grae-

BBB Tip: Back-To-School Shopping For Tech Supplies

By BETTER
BUSINESS BUREAU

Technology has become a permanent fixture of the education experience. After the crash course in educational technology that was the 2020 school year, teachers and students are increasingly confident in using technology for learning. Though its role in the classroom will continue to evolve, a precedent has been set – technology is now a critical component of education.

Market research firm Deloitte details how educational shifts influence consumer shopping habits. "Digital learning tools are replacing traditional school supplies, driving tech sales up 37% YoY." As families begin to invest in reliable technology, BBB® advises shoppers to beware of scammers who could spoil your hopes for academic success.

Data shows that consumers are not only planning to make more technology purchases but also using digital technology to make those purchases. Deloitte research indicates that nearly half of consumers want to shop online for technology purchases. Plus, consumers say quality and price are the top two factors driving their purchase decisions.

However, shortages of essential supplies like computer chips may limit the options available to shoppers. Together, these trends put consumers in a risky position – where they need products but can't find them available from trustworthy sellers. In times like these, scams are increasingly likely.

Scammers may target shoppers with phony deals, enticing ads and attractive but fake websites. To ensure you don't fall prey to a scam, savvy online shopping is a must.

BBB offers these tips for buying tech products ahead of the new school year:

- Shop with familiar retailers. Laptops, tablets or other tech accessories can be a significant investment. Shop with businesses you know and trust to ensure you're getting a quality product and good customer service.

- Don't buy from impostors. Fraudsters may use the name, logo and other characteristics of brands you trust. Closely examine the website to verify that they are who they say they are.

- Approach low prices with caution. Low prices and short-term sales could signal you've encountered a scam. If the price seems too good to be true, it probably is.

- Some companies rarely offer sales. Do more research if a company that rarely discounts products offers a huge sale. The products may be used or refurbished, or it could be a fake website.

- Know what you're shopping for. Set a budget, identify what capabilities will benefit your student and compare your options. Then, shop around for a reliable seller. Researching the best product for your needs will help you avoid scams and buyer's remorse.

- Ensure you know who the seller is. Some big box retailers allow third-party sellers to list items on their site, and those items can be hard to distinguish from the rest. Read all the fine print to ensure you're comfortable with the seller.

- Finish your shopping early. Supply shortages are possible, especially as many consumers begin shopping for the same products. Do your shopping now to avoid paying higher prices or falling victim to a scam.

Manet CHC To Host Open Houses To Mark National Health Center Week

Manet Community Health Center (Manet) will hold a series of open house events across its service area to mark National Health Center Week 2022 (NHCW), Aug. 7-13, a national celebration to raise awareness about the mission and accomplishments of America's Health Centers, which serve close to 29 million people across the nation and approximately 1 million - or 1 in 7 - people in Massachusetts.

Highlights of the week include a special recognition ceremony at 11 a.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 9, at Manet's largest site at 110 West Squantum St. in North Quincy, which will offer a preview of the Radiology program and, importantly, will acknowledge Mayor Thomas Koch's support and partnership for three Manet locations in the City of Quincy, and for the federal community health center program; and a first anniversary celebration at Manet's newest site at 8 North Main St. in Attleboro on Wednesday, Aug. 10.

Manet will host open house events at each of its sites in Hull, Quincy, Attleboro and Taunton with free COVID-19 vaccinations, healthy snacks, games, giveaways and health center information. Members of the public, community partners, elected officials and patients are welcome to attend. Following is a complete schedule:

Monday, August 8, 1-4 p.m.

AAA: Gasoline Prices Drop 5 Cents

Massachusetts's average gas price is down five cents from last week ($4.52), averaging $4.47 per gallon. Monday's price is 41 cents lower than a month ago ($4.88), and $1.44 higher than Aug. 1, 2021 ($3.03). Massachusetts's average gas price is 26 cents higher than the national average.

The national average for a gallon of gas fell to $4.21, down 14 cents since last week. But a slight uptick in gas demand as more people fuel up could end the steady drop in daily pump prices.

"We know that most American drivers have made significant changes in their driving habits to cope with high gas prices," said Mary Maguire, AAA Northeast Director of Public and Government Affairs. "But with fuel prices locally falling every day, it's possible that gas demand could rise."

AAA Northeast's Aug. 1 survey of fuel prices found the current national average to be 14 cents lower than last week ($4.35), averaging $4.21 a gallon.

Baker Signs Legislation Further Protecting Access To Reproductive Health Care Services

Governor Charlie Baker has signed legislation to further protect access to reproductive health care services in Massachusetts following the Supreme Court's decision overturning Roe v. Wade.

The legislation codifies several measures that were first included in an Executive Order issued by Governor Baker in the hours following the Supreme Court's decision in June. The law also adopts several new or expanded measures to protect access to reproductive health services in the Commonwealth. All the protections in the bill apply equally to reproductive and gender-affirming health care services provided or accessed in the Commonwealth.

"Massachusetts remains steadfast in its commitment to protect access to reproductive health care services, especially in the aftermath of the Supreme Court's decision overturning Roe v. Wade," Gov. Baker said.

"The Court's decision has major consequences for women across the country who live in states with limited access to these services, and our administration took quick action in the hours following that decision by issuing an Executive Order to protect access here in the Commonwealth. This new legislation signed today builds on that action by protecting patients and providers from legal interference from more restrictive laws in other states. We are grateful for the compromise and dedication to the issue that our legislative colleagues demonstrated to make this important, bipartisan law a reality."

"In the aftermath of the Supreme Court's decision overturning Roe v. Wade,

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Aspects favor socializing with family and friends, but an irksome workplace situation could intrude. No use grumbling, Lamb: Just do it, and then get back to the fun times.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) There's still time for you Ferdinands and Fernandas to relax and sniff the roses. But a major work project looms and will soon demand much of your attention through the next week.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Your enthusiasm persuades even the toughest doubters to listen to what you're proposing. But don't push too hard, or you'll push them away. Moderate for best results.
CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Your energy levels are rising, and you feel like you can handle anything that the job requires. While that's great, don't isolate yourself. Keep your door open to your workplace colleagues for sound advice.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) A workplace change could lead to that promotion you've been hoping for. But you'll have to face some tough competition before the Lion can claim his or her share of the goodies.
VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Your rigidity regarding a difficult workplace situation could be the reason your colleagues aren't rushing to your assistance. Try being more flexible in your demands.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) That uneasy mood could be your Libran inner voice reminding you that while it's great to be with your new friends, you need to take care not to ignore your old ones.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A sudden spate of criticism could shake the Scorpion's usually high sense of self-confidence. Best advice: You made a decision you believed in — now defend it.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Your reluctance to help restart a stalled relationship could be traced to unresolved doubts about your partner's honesty. Rely on a trusted friend's advice.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) The capricious Sea Goat is torn between duty and diversion. Best advice: Do both. Tend to your everyday chores, and then go out and enjoy your well-earned fun time.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Cutting back on some of your activities for a few days helps to restore your energy levels. You should be feeling ready to tackle your many projects early next week.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A co-worker might secretly be harping on about your work to your mutual colleagues. But some associates will come to your defense, and the situation will ultimately work to your advantage.

BORN THIS WEEK: Your ambition makes you a success at whatever you choose to do — especially if it's in the world of the performing arts.

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD — The #MeToo movement is not a trial by judge or jury, but a condemnation in a court of public opinion. The subject of a #MeToo judgment could lose everything, even if they can prove their innocence, because the retraction never catches the front-page headline. Recent case in point is Armie Hammer who, despite such successes as "The Social Network" (2010) and "Call Me by Your Name" (2016), was accused of sexual abuse in an anonymous Instagram post. Even though it was never proven, he was dropped by his agency and cut from co-starring opposite Jennifer Lopez in "Shotgun Wedding" (replaced by Josh Duhamel). Hammer also lost "The Offer" (replaced by Miles Teller) and was dropped from the series "Gaslit" (replaced by Dan Stevens), the film "Billion Dollar Spy" and a Broadway play titled "The Minutes." His role in "Death on the Nile" — completed before the pandemic shutdown — was impossible to reshoot, but Taika Waititi replaced him with Will Arnett in "Next Goal Wins." Needless to say, Hammer's marriage fell apart, and when his wife, Elizabeth Chambers, moved to the Cayman Islands with their two children, he soon followed. However, Armie received no assistance from his famous family (you know, Arm & Hammer), so in order to support his family, he took a job at a Cayman Island resort selling ing timeshares from a cubby-hole office. As of now, no papers have been filed against him in any court, and no settlements of any kind were made. So much for "innocent until proven guilty!"

"The Fall Guy" was an ABC series from 1981-86 starring Lee Majors as Colt Seavers, a Hollywood stuntman by day and a bounty hunter by night. In 1981, Milton Bradley created a "Fall Guy" board game. A comic strip based on the series appeared in a "Look-in" magazine, and a British video game was developed by Elite Systems in 1984. In 2013, Dwayne Johnson was in talks to star in a film, but it never happened. Now, "The Fall Guy" will be a $100-million film starring Ryan Gosling as Colt Seavers. But here's the catch... this American-made series-turned-film about a Hollywood stuntman is going to be shot in Australia! The government in New South Wales is providing $14.5 million, and the Australian Federal Government is ponying up $30 million.

Paul Fletcher, member of parliament, expects "The Fall Guy" will inject more than $244 million into the Aussie economy by employing 1,000 Australians who will make up the cast and crew, as well as over 3,000 locals as background extras. With those figures, "The Fall Guy" is a man for all seasons!

KOVELS' Antiques & Collecting

By Terry and Kim Kovel

Wood Bulto — Fra Andreas Garcia was an 18th-century Mexican Franciscan friar and folk artist who worked in what is now New Mexico. He carved and painted wooden figures of saints, called bulto, that were about 12 to 18 inches high. The figures were used as devotional images as well as artistic objects.

A polychromed wood bulto made by Fra Garcia between 1748 and 1778 representing San (Saint) Rafael the Archangel sold at a Cottone auction. An archangel is a messenger of God, higher ranking than an angel. San Rafael is a patron saint of travelers, often depicted holding a staff; the blind; and physicians, from an Old Testament story in which he healed a blind man with fish's gall.

Q: I love Coca-Cola advertising. I recently bought a metal Coca-Cola serving tray with a girl in a white bathing suit sitting on a diving board and drinking a Coke. How can I tell if it's vintage and how much it is worth?

A: Coca-Cola was first served in 1886 in Atlanta, Georgia. John Pemberton, an Atlanta pharmacist, invented Coca-Cola when he combined a mysterious, dark liquid with carbonated water. Coca-Cola advertising pieces have been hot for years, popular with both collectors and businesses with vintage decor. Coke started making serving trays in 1897. Vintage Coca-Cola trays have black backs, while reproductions may have yellow, white or other colored backs. Telltale signs of a reproduction include barcodes and any evidence that the back has been painted black. A real 1939, 13-inch by 10 1/2-inch metal Coca-Cola tray of a girl on a springboard like yours recently sold for $102.

• M.F. in Washington writes: "For taking to a party: Melt vanilla chips in the microwave, adding by handfuls and heating for about 15 seconds at a time. After 15 seconds, stir and repeat until chips have melted. Then dip small clusters of green grapes into the melted vanilla chips."

• "I read your tips in a Rochelle, Illinois, newspaper. The paper is sent to me by a friend, and I love the tips. Here is mine: For homemade spray and wash, mix 2 cups of water, 2 tablespoons of white vinegar, 1 tablespoon of baking soda and 1 tablespoon of dish soap." — K.W. in Tennessee

• When purchasing school supplies, remember that paper, pencils, etc., typically aren't on sale mid-year, so stocking up is a good idea.

Just make sure the deal you are getting is a good one. Then put it away for distribution later!

• I lay out my school clothes and even my hairbrush and stuff to get ready. I put my shoes and socks by the front door. I am always ready before my sister, and I get to watch TV while she is running around. — R.G. in Florida

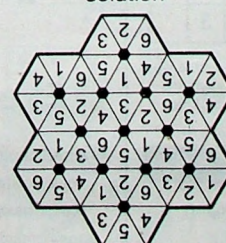

• Pint-size water bottles are great for refilling with milk. The milk boxes at the grocery store are so expensive, and this way, I can control how chocolatey the chocolate milk is. — C.C. in Oregon

Q: I heard that "Quantum Leap" is returning. Will Scott Bakula star in it again? Also, what channel or streaming service will air it? — S.D.

A: It's the era of the reboot. Most of these modern takes have been in the form of sitcoms, such as "Fuller House," "The Conners" and "Will & Grace," as well as the upcoming "Night Court," with John Larroquette returning as attorney Dan Fielding. The sci-fi drama "Quantum Leap" aired on NBC from 1989 to 1993, with Scott Bakula playing time traveler Dr. Sam Beckett. NBC will also serve as the home of the new "Quantum Leap" series this fall, which stars Raymond Lee ("Top Gun: Maverick") as a scientist named Dr. Ben Seong, who makes a leap of his own 30 years after Dr. Beckett's disappearance.

TVInsider.com reports that "Ben is joined on his journey by decorated Army veteran Addison (Caitlin Bassett), appearing in the form of a hologram that only Ben can see and hear." This is Bassett's first major Hollywood role. She herself is an Army vet who spent seven years as an intelligence analyst. Rounding out the cast are Ernie Hudson ("Grace and Frankie"), Mason Alexander Park ("Cowboy Bebop") and Nanrisa Lee ("Bosch"). Perhaps Scott Bakula will make a surprise appearance at some point, but nothing official has been announced yet.

Q: I was surprised to see a commercial for a new series based on Anne Rice's novel "Interview With the Vampire." I didn't recognize the lead actor. Who is he? — B.K.

A: "Interview With the Vampire" was written by Anne Rice in just five weeks, and was first published in 1976. The film, which debuted in 1994, starred two Hollywood powerhouses — Tom Cruise and Brad Pitt — as Lestat and Louis, as well as an impressive performance from 10-year-old Kirsten Dunst, who portrayed a child vampire.

In the upcoming television series of the same name, Sam Reid plays Lestat, and Jacob Anderson is Louis. Reid, who is Australian and studied at the London Academy of Music and Dramatic Art, is best known to American audiences for playing John Glenn in the short-lived ABC series "The Astronaut Wives Club." Anderson, who is British, played Grey Worm, the chosen commander of the Unsullied in HBO's "Game of Thrones." "Interview With a Vampire" premieres on Oct. 8 on AMC and AMC+.

Q: Who is Bradley Cooper's new girlfriend? She looks a lot like George Clooney's wife. Is she an actress? — K.K.

A: Actor Bradley Cooper has been quietly seeing Huma Abedin, who was Hillary Clinton's vice-chairperson during her 2016 presidential campaign. Abedin was previously married to disgraced former congressman Anthony Weiner. Abedin's memoir "Both/And: A Life in Many Worlds" is being adapted into a series starring Freida Pinto ("Slumdog Millionaire"), but Abedin herself is not an actress. She and Cooper were introduced by a mutual friend, "Vogue" magazine editor-in-chief Anna Wintour. Their courtship is only in the beginning stages.

A Sly Solution to the Phantom Pet Pooper

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I read your recent column about the homeowner who was struggling to find out which owner was allowing their dog to poop on their lawn. Your ideas were pretty good, but I have another one that they might consider.

I run a small bed and breakfast, and dog poop on the front lawn is a huge concern to me. No guest wants to see that, much less accidentally step in it! I installed cameras and caught a couple of neighbors' dogs in the act, but the problem continued. Then I noticed something. My landscaper applies a fertilizer and pest control to the lawn in the spring and fall, and he puts up a little sign that warns people not to allow pets or children onto the grass until the application dries. When that sign is up, no neighbors come near my property. I asked the landscaper to leave the sign up year-round. I haven't had a single "deposit" since! I hope this sneaky idea helps. — Vince in Saratoga, New York

DEAR VINCE: That is a genius idea. And while it is a little sneaky, it controls the pet waste problem in a non-confrontational way. Hopefully, no one calls your bluff! Another option is to periodically treat your front lawn with a dog-repelling scent. These products, both sprays and granules, are available at pet and home-improvement stores and online. Spritz the borders of the lawn and plants or spread the granules around on a dry day that isn't windy. You can even make homemade repellent by mixing one part cayenne pepper with 10 parts water and spraying around the yard. (Do not spritz these repellents directly at a neighbor's dog!)

"Lightyear" (PG) — As a spinoff of the "Toy Story" franchise, this movie focuses on Space Ranger Buzz Lightyear, the real astronaut who would come to serve as inspiration for the Buzz Lightyear toy that we've all come to know very well. Human Buzz and his Star Command crew have been marooned on the planet of T'Kani Prime for a year, as they attempt to find a way home with hyperspace fuel. Buzz volunteers to test the fuel, not knowing how life-altering each test will be for the future; thus, an adventure of time travel ensues, all leading up to a climatic face-off with Emperor Zurg. Chris Evans is the voice of Buzz in "Lightyear," premiering Aug. 3. (Disney+)

"A Day to Die" (R) — If you're in the mood for high stakes and action, look no further than this new heist film out now. Kevin Dillon ("Entourage") portrays Connor, a disgraced police officer who used to be part of a ghost squad. Finding himself with a large debt to drug kingpin Tyrone Pettis, Connor is forced to take desperate measures to pay up when Tyrone kidnaps Connor's pregnant wife, Candice. So, Connor assembles his old ghost squad teammates to pull off a few drug heists to settle his debt and save Candice. Newly retired action-film legend Bruce Willis also co-stars as the police chief, Alston. (Hulu)

"Purple Hearts" (NR) — Aspiring musician Cassie (Sofia Carson) and third-generation Marine Luke (Nicholas Galitzine) hatch an idea to get married, even though they aren't romantically involved. With Luke's military benefits, Cassie — whose health problems have been holding her back from creating music — is eligible to receive a year of free health insurance. So, they decide to get hitched, just before Luke gets deployed. But when Luke gets wounded in action and faces a long road of recovery, Cassie must step up to be the wife she agreed to be in his time of need. As Cassie and Luke learn to rely on each other as a true couple does, unexpected love begins to bloom, and the two must grapple with the fact that falling in love with each other wasn't in the original plan. "Last Night in Soho" (R) — The latest movie from director Edgar Wright ("Baby Driver," "Ant-Man" and "Hot Fuzz") takes on uncharted territory in Wright's repertoire as his first film in the horror/thriller genres. In the film, a young woman named Ellie (Thomasin McKenzie) moves to London to study fashion, when she begins having vivid dreams that always take place in the 1960s. Ellie's dreams also include Sandie (Anya Taylor-Joy), a fashionable woman who dreams of becoming a singer, and Jack (Matt Smith), Sandie's romantic interest. These life-like dreams quickly turn from fun to sinister, when the dreams blur into Ellie's real life as visions, and she envisions a terrifying murder. It's just a matter of time before Ellie realizes that the story unfolding before her is far from imaginary. (HBO Max)

Opening lead: — ace of clubs.

There's just no accounting for the kind of mistakes defenders sometimes make. Chalk it up to fatigue, inattention, mental aberration — whatever the case, there's no denying that it has happened to all of us.

Take this case where South was in six hearts and West led the ace of clubs. When East dropped the ten, West continued with a club, felling East's king as declarer ruffed in dummy.

At this stage, it would seem that with normal play declarer is headed for down one. Unless he can see through the backs of the cards, he will cash the queen of hearts and lead a heart to the ace as East follows with the deuce and seven. When the trumps divide 4-1, South has to lose a trump trick, and that's that.

But a funny thing happened on the way to down one. When declarer led the eight of hearts from dummy after cashing the queen, East covered with the ten! Perhaps East thought he was guaranteeing himself a trump trick with this play, but it proved to be just the opening South needed.

After winning the ten with the king and seeing West show out, declarer realized that the only way a trump loser could be avoided was by means of a coup. This necessitated reducing his trump length to that of East. Accordingly, he next led a diamond to the ace and ruffed a diamond with the six, leaving him with the A-9 of trump.

Dummy was entered with a spade, and the king of diamonds was cashed, declarer discarding the queen of spades. Spades were then run, and East's "sure" trump trick went up in smoke. Whether he trumped a spade at some point or discarded instead, his J-7 of trump were sure to succumb to South's A-9, and the slam was home.

Alarming Rate Of False Positives Plagues Lung Cancer Screening

DEAR DR. ROACH: I'm a 74-year-old female who smoked a pack a day for 40-plus years, having quit smoking about 18 years ago. As a precaution, I asked my primary doctor to order a screening CT scan, knowing that I'm a candidate for lung cancer. The results showed a 3-mm nodule in one lung, and I was advised not to worry and that my doctor would order another CT scan in six months. I can't help but wonder if this is cancer and if an oncologist, after six months, will ask me why I waited so long to see him. -- T.W.

ANSWER: Medical professionals have been attempting to screen for lung cancer for decades. Chest X-rays proved insensitive: By the time cancer could be seen on X-ray, it was usually too late to do anything about it. CT scans are much more sensitive (maybe too sensitive; see below), and studies have shown that some lives will be saved with a screening program. However, the number of people who would benefit is relatively small. 256 moderate-to-heavy smokers would need yearly screening for three years in order to prevent one lung cancer death.

There are two other significant concerns about lung cancer screening. The first is the issue you have now: an abnormal result and what to do about it. It's extremely common. Almost 25% of scans will be abnormal, and 96% of the abnormal results will be false positives. But it will require multiple scans, and sometimes an invasive procedure, to prove it. This means a great deal of anxiety among people who get the type of result you did.

The small size of your nodule means the risk that this nodule is cancerous is much lower than 1%. A follow-up scan is the usual recommendation, and if the nodule is the same size or smaller, the chance of it being cancerous is very close to zero. You should have had a careful explanation of the likelihood of false positive results before getting the scan. You also should have been warned of the possible need for a biopsy and the possible financial costs associated with follow-up testing.

The second concern is that current smokers who consider screening should receive intensive advice and help in quitting smoking. A negative CT scan is not a "clean bill of health" for a smoker, and quitting remains to be the single most important thing most smokers can do for their overall health.

DEAR DR. ROACH: I am 90 years old. My husband and I donated blood as often as needed -- over 100 times -- but last week, my doctor said I tested positive for syphilis. I about fell off my chair. I haven't slept for four nights. Have you ever heard of this? -- E.

ANSWER: The screening test for syphilis, called the VDRL or RPR test, is not particularly accurate. About 1-2% of people will have a false positive result, meaning that the test is positive, but they do not have syphilis. There are many possible causes, such as infection and autoimmune diseases like lupus, but some people, particularly older people, will have a positive test for no identifiable reason.

In your case, I am sure it is a false positive, but your doctor may do a more specific test, such as an FTA-ABS, to be 100% sure. You shouldn't let it keep you awake at night.

Dr. Roach regrets that he is unable to answer individual questions, but will incorporate them in the column whenever possible. Readers may email questions to ToYourGoodHealth@med.cornell.edu.

Summer Chicken and Pasta Salad

August ... when it's too sweltering for even the dogs to venture out into the noonday sun. Cook your macaroni early in the morning — or better yet, simply pull some already-cooked pasta out of the freezer to thaw, and you won't have to turn on your stove for this refreshing main-dish salad.

- 2/3 cup fat-free mayonnaise
- 2 tablespoons fat-free milk
- 1/4 cup grated reduced-fat Parmesan cheese
- 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
- 1 cup diced cooked chicken breast
- 3 cups cooked shell macaroni, rinsed and drained
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1 cup chopped fresh tomato
- 3/4 cup chopped green bell pepper

1. In a large bowl, combine mayonnaise, milk, Parmesan cheese and black pepper. Add chicken, macaroni and onion. Mix well to combine. Gently fold in tomato and green pepper.

2. Cover and refrigerate for at least 1 hour. Mix gently again just before serving. Serves 6 (1 cup each).

• Each serving equals: 178 calories, 2g fat, 10g protein, 30g carb., 355mg sodium, 2g fiber; Diabetic Exchanges: 1 1/2 Starch, 1 Meat, 1/2 Vegetable.

1. What is the whole title of the song "Exordium & Terminus"?
2. Name the three big hits that came out of the film "Grease."
3. Which group released "I Don't Want to Live Without You" in 1988?
4. Who was Casey Kasem?
5. Name the song that contains these lyrics: "I turn around in the still of the room. Knowing this is when I'm gonna make my move."

Answers

1. "In the Year 2525 (Exordium & Terminus)," by Zager and Evans in 1969. Oddly enough, the duo never released another song that even reached the charts.
2. Frankie Valli's "Grease," "You're the One That I Want," a duet by John Travolta and Olivia Newton-John and "Hopelessly Devoted to You," by Newton-John alone, in 1978.
3. Foreigner, on their "Inside Information" album. It topped the Adult Contemporary chart, the group's only No. 1 hit.
4. Kasem was a DJ who hosted famous radio shows such as "American Top 40." He was on the air for nearly 40 years.
5. "Piano in the Dark," by Brenda Russell in 1988. In the song a woman tries to leave her lover, but loves his piano playing too much.

it's critical that we in Massachusetts affirm that our state will continue to ensure access to reproductive health care services," said Lt. Gov. Karyn Polito. "The new protections in this law build on the steps our administration took last month and our shared bipartisan work to protect access to these services. We appreciate the opportunity to work with the Legislature to provide these important safeguards."

"Like so many others, I was devastated by this extremist Supreme Court's decision to overturn the rights enshrined in Roe v. Wade. I am very proud that, with the signing of this legislation, Massachusetts will continue to be a national leader in protecting and defending the rights of our residents and of those people who come here seeking access to health care," said Senate President Karen E. Spilka. "Pregnant people, trans people, and all people must be allowed to make their own health care decisions in consultation with their physician without fear. Our fight to protect the rights and dignity of our residents cannot end today, however, and so the Senate will continue to explore ways to uphold our fundamental rights. I am grateful to my colleagues in the Senate who stood together to act quickly and decisively on this issue, to Speaker Mariano and the House of Representatives, and to Governor Baker for his quick action as well."

"In the aftermath of the Supreme Court's decision to ignore nearly 50 years of judicial precedent and overturn Roe v. Wade, and as states across the country move to restrict access to abortion, I'm incredibly proud of the fact that elected officials in Massachusetts have acted to ensure that the Commonwealth can serve as a safe haven for women seeking reproductive health care services, and for providers whose licenses could be at risk because of laws passed in other states," said House Speaker Ronald J. Mariano (D-Quincy). "The protections that are codified into law with this legislation, which will help to ensure that no woman will ever be forced to leave Massachusetts to access reproductive health care services because of devastating medical news during the later stages of their pregnancy, have never been more important. I want to thank all my colleagues in the House, as well as our partners in the Senate and in the Administration, for their commitment to protecting a woman's right to choose, and for the hard work and cooperation that ultimately facilitated the passage of this legislation."

The new law protects patients and providers from legal interference when they are engaged in accessing or providing reproductive and gender affirming health care services that are legally protected in Massachusetts. The law also codifies several protections that Governor Baker put in place by Executive Order last month to prohibit the Commonwealth from assisting with other states' investigations or legal proceedings regarding health care services that may be restricted in other states. The law also includes requirements for insurers to cover reproductive health care services, provisions addressing abortions performed at 24 weeks or later and measures that expand access to contraception across the Commonwealth.

Quincy Quarry, Granite Workers Museum Open Aug. 6,7; Aug. 20, 21

The Quincy Quarry and Granite Workers Museum and the Lyons Turning Mill will be open on two weekends in August: Saturday, Aug. 6th and Sunday, Aug. 7th; and the second weekend Saturday, Aug. 20th and Sunday, Aug. 21st.

The public is invited to visit the museum and walk around the Turning Mill viewing interpretive infor-

ZBA Should Uphold Zoning Regulations

Most Quincy residents probably have not encountered the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA). Without a situation that directly impacts a residence or neighborhood, a Quincy resident could live an entirely happy existence without knowing that this board even exists.

However, it does exist, and its role is to uphold zoning regulations. These regulations were developed to ensure that Quincy residents live in a city that might regard and realize the multilayered impact of poor development plans. It is supposed to exist to ensure that Quincy's ecology and environment are not further damaged by ill-conceived, cash-grabbing, greed-driven plans.

Unfortunately, however, there seems to be some influence over the ZBA that has allowed developers to benefit by a constant flow of approvals. While Quincy citizens and some of their elected officials voice their

Graceffa Quilt Displays At International Juried Show

An art quilt titled "Out on a Limb" by local interior decorator and quilt artist Barbara Graceffa has been accepted into an international juried art show at The Brush Gallery in Lowell. The theme of this annual art quilt exhibition is "Tree, Tree, Tree."

Quilting for more than 40 years, this was Graceffa's first entry in a juried show.

"Although I have participated in many quilt shows over the years, this is the first show in which I needed to compete for inclusion, so I am very honored to have been chosen among talented quilters across the world," Graceffa said. "Moreover, I'm pleased that quilting has now been recognized as a fine art category."

One of two dozen art quilts selected for the show, the background fabric of Graceffa's piece is a hand-painted, marbled tree to which she machine appliquéd brightly colored batik

According to the gallery's Executive Director James Dymont, "the jurors were extremely selective ... (and quilters like Barbara) should be very proud."

The show runs from Aug.

6 through Sept. 17 with an artist reception on Saturday, Aug. 13 from 2 to 4 p.m. at the gallery located at 256 Market St. at the Lowell National Historic Park.

The gallery is open Tuesdays through Sundays with free admission.

My neighborhood has been impacted by one of these ill-conceived projects that the ZBA green-lighted. While I wish I had been aware before this issue arose, more Quincy resi-
